

ITALIAN FIELD COMMANDER RECEIVES AUSTRIAN ENVOY

REPUBLIC OF HUNGARY
PROCLAIMED

Berlin Tageblatt Prints Message From Count Karolyi, Saying Troops Aided Civilian in Declaring New Form of Government at Budapest.

NATIONAL COUNCIL
TAKES GOVERNMENT

Prince Joseph Said to Have Left City and Emperor to Have Ordered Authorities Not to Oppose Rising of Populace.

By the Associated Press. COPENHAGEN, Nov. 1.—A successful revolution has taken place in Budapest and the Hungarian National Council has taken over the Government, according to a message sent by Count Michael Karolyi to the Berlin Tageblatt.

The message from Count Karolyi, who is head of the Hungarian independent party, reads: "Revolution in Budapest and National Council took over Government. Military and police acknowledge National Council completely. Inhabitants rejoicing."

Emperor Charles said to have ordered authorities to yield. The revolution in Budapest, Archduke Joseph, the representative of the Emperor, left the city, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Zurich.

Emperor Charles, the dispatch adds, before leaving Vienna, personally gave orders that all conflict with the population be avoided. He instructed the authorities to yield without resistance to the new power.

BERNE, Nov. 1.—Military insurrections occurred in both Vienna and Budapest Wednesday, according to the Berlin newspapers. The people and troops acclaimed a republic.

The troubles in Budapest seem to have been caused by an attempt of Archduke Joseph to impose a military dictatorship. It would be premature, however, to try to form an opinion on the events, which are obscure, and regarding which explicit information is not available.

It is pointed out in high quarters here that, in addition to the Berlin newspapers taking energetic measures to inform the German public of the revolutionary troubles in Hungary, care was taken by the Wolf Bureau, the semi-official German news-gathering organization, to transmit the news abroad.

The Berlin Vossische Zeitung prints a dispatch from Budapest saying that a crowd stormed the prison and released political and military prisoners. Revolutionary troops seized the eastern railroad terminus, and soldiers from two troop trains, which were about to start for the front, joined the insurgents and plundered the armaments.

Tageblatt's Report. Under the heading "A Republic on the March," the Berlin Tageblatt of Wednesday gives details of the events of that day in Vienna.

The demonstrations began in the forenoon, with a meeting of students, which was joined by workmen, men in front of the Parliament building. President Dinghofer, of the National Council, in a speech, declared the National Government would take over the whole administration on Thursday.

But without the Hapsburgs' consent, the crowd. An officer in uniform then called on the soldiers and officers to remove the imperial cockades. The imperial standard flying above the Parliament building was then hauled down upon the roof of the President's house.

ARMISTICE TERMS TO BE CONFINED TO MILITARY NEEDS

Conditions Will Be Based Generally on President Wilson's Principles, However, Says Paris Dispatch.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, Nov. 1.—The armistice terms to be submitted to Germany will be confined strictly to military requirements, except that it will be brought out clearly that they are conditioned generally upon President Wilson's principles, with some definiteness.

Today's deliberations in connection with the armistice proposition were participated in by Belgian and Japanese representatives, the day's meeting having to do with Germany. When Austrian affairs were discussed yesterday, Serbia and Greek representatives were in attendance because of their particular interest in Austrian matters.

The Prime Ministers of the allied countries for several days have been doing the principal part of the work in the small back parlor of the apartment occupied by Mr. House.

The large windows of the parlor overlook a little garden, and the rug and the plaster are old. A small American telephone exchange has been put into the apartment by the army signal corps and an American telephone girl manipulates the plugs, reading between the lines of western American life. The telephone wires run from the various army headquarters and also from the foreign offices in London and Rome. The whole impression is a blend of the old world and the new.

The representatives of the Entente first met Versailles after their first formal meeting visibly content with the results that had been achieved. They have not finished their work, but have reached a substantial accord. Their task is moving, and they soon will be able to make announcements.

The Turkish armistice terms were chiefly the work of the British and French. In them the United States had no part. The decision in this instance is regarded as one of great importance.

An informal conference took place at the home of E. M. House, President Wilson's personal representative, in the forenoon prior to the assembling at Versailles. Among others present were Clemenceau and Pichon, respectively, the French Premier and Foreign Minister; Sig. Orlando and Baron Sonnino, the Italian Premier and Foreign Minister; and David Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister.

In addition to the French, Italian and British representatives, Dr. M. R. Veschnik, the Serbian Minister to France, and Eleutherios Venizelos, the Greek Premier, attended. The Americans present, in addition to Mr. House, were Arthur H. Frazier, secretary of the American embassy; Joseph C. Grew and Gordon Auchincloss, who acted as secretaries for Mr. House; Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, the representative of the United States in the war council, with Gen. Lockridge and Col. Wallace as secretaries; and Admiral Behnen, with Commander Russell as his secretary.

Foch is unaccompanied. The last to arrive at the conference was Marshal Foch. He was without aid or orderly.

At Versailles the business was over in a series of hours and a long line of automobiles with the representatives of the Powers returned to Paris. The reason for the trip to Versailles yesterday was that it is the headquarters of the Supreme War Council, which theoretically makes no decision except at Versailles.

There will be another informal meeting at the residence of Mr. House today and the business of the council will be pushed forward rapidly either at formal or informal meetings, until it is concluded.

The spirit of all the representatives appears to be favorable to the ironing out of all the obstacles rather than to raising them.

The atmosphere of Versailles is surcharged with the importance of the task.

SOCIALISTS TO AGITATE TO GET
KAISER TO QUIT

Independents Throughout Germany Said to Be About to Launch Move, Calling Also for Hindenburg's Dismissal.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Nov. 1.—Independent Socialists throughout Germany are about to start an agitation for the immediate abdication of the Emperor, the dismissal of Field Marshal Hindenburg and the withdrawal of commands from the Crown Princes of Prussia and Bavaria, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co., quoting the Vols Zeitung of Leipzig.

High-placed German officials at Copenhagen yesterday afternoon received information that the German Emperor had abdicated, according to the Copenhagen correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Co., who adds: "Nothing is said about the Crown Prince."

Outbreaks in Rhine Provinces Reported — Bernstorff Called Into Berlin, Says Frankfurt Zeitung.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Nov. 1.—There has been an outbreak and a panic among the population in the Rhine provinces, arising from reports that the authorities were prepared, if necessary, to allow the enemy troops to occupy Cologne and Cologne, according to the Berlin Tagliche Rundschau.

The Cologne Gazette announces that the political department at supreme army headquarters has suppressed the department created by Gen. Ludendorff, former First Quartermaster-General, for the purpose of holding all the threads in his own hands.

Bernstorff Said to Have Been Called to Berlin. BASEL, Nov. 1.—The Frankfurt Zeitung, a copy of which has been received here, says Count von Bernstorff, German Ambassador to Turkey, will arrive in Berlin today, having been recalled from Constantinople, less on account of recent events in Turkey than the necessity to have someone in Berlin especially acquainted with American matters.

The newspaper adds that the Turkish Ambassador in Berlin, Turkish officers in Germany and two Turkish Princes who were summoned in the German capital have been recalled to Turkey.

Alsace-Lorrainers Say That Want German Rule "No More Than 45 Years Ago."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Delegates of 13 commissions representing the Alsace-Lorrainers in Switzerland declared in formal resolutions adopted at a recent meeting at Berne the needy populations of those provinces "do not wish now, any more than they did 45 years ago, to belong to the German confederation, and making use of the right of free disposal, they demand the pure and simple rejoining of Alsace-Lorraine to France."

The resolutions, which have been received in Washington by cable, denounce as inadequate the new reform measures which the German Government has instituted in Alsace-Lorraine, declaring that even the liberal among the members of the new ministry are not worthy of confidence.

AMBASSADOR FRANCIS TO GO TO ENGLAND FOR SLIGHT OPERATION

Washington Reports St. Louis Diplomat Plans Departure From Post at Archangel Soon.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Ambassador Francis soon is to leave Archangel for England, where he will undergo a slight operation.

Values are changing. Many useful articles offered in Post-Dispatch "Wanted" are worth twice the price asked.

FLYERS DROP COPIES OF PEACE NOTES ON BOTH SIDES OF FRONT

American and Enemy Troops Kept in Close Touch With Exchanges With Washington.

By the Associated Press. WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Thursday, Oct. 31.—The men in the most advanced positions on both sides of the lines are reading the new developments regarding an armistice almost as early as those to whom the daily papers are available. Propaganda officers, both American and German, are using aviators to distribute the notes which have passed between Berlin and Vienna and Washington, and tonight implications were made to disseminate the news of Turkey's downfall.

Arthur Page and Walter Lippmann are conducting the propaganda from the headquarters in Paris. President Wilson's note to Austria was circulated by the Americans among the Austrian troops within a few hours after it was delivered. Prisoners who were brought in had copies in their possession. The document had been printed with the range of the enemy's guns and carried over by aviators.

NO PRETENSE OF JUSTICE IN RUSSIA, LORD CECIL ASSERTS

Official Says British Mean to Exact Justice of Those Responsible for Conditions.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 1.—Discussing the position of British subjects in Russia in the House of Commons yesterday, Lord Robert Cecil, Assistant Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, said the Government's information was that the amount of blood shed by the present Government of Russia greatly exceeded anything that ever took place under the imperial regime.

"There has been no pretense of justice," he said. "People of all nationalities have been arrested and imprisoned without any reason being given. Moreover, there has been a large amount of casual murder and brigandage throughout all of European Russia. There has also been reckless destruction of all means of subsistence."

"The British Government will shrink from nothing within their power to get every British subject out of Russia, and unquestionably to exact justice of the people guilty of these outrages when they are able to get them into their power."

INFLUENZA BAN HAS LITTLE EFFECT ON HALLOWEEN HERE

Usual Number of Minor Law Infractions—Girl in Auto Struck by Bullet.

Influenza bans seemingly did not blight Young America's observance of Halloween in St. Louis. The police reported the usual number of street lights extinguished and the usual number of bread boxes overturned.

Mrs. A. W. Carr, 5161 Maple avenue, was retiring at 10 o'clock when she heard a pistol shot in the street. The bullet came through the bedroom window and struck the ceiling.

Miss Anna Sisk, 14 years old, 1502 Grand street, was passing in an automobile passing Thirteenth and Biddle streets at 9:45 o'clock. A bullet from a revolver fired in the street struck her in the back, near the left shoulder, inflicting a superficial flesh wound.

MME. BRESKOVSKAYA SHOT

By the Associated Press. AMSTERDAM, Nov. 1.—According to a Petrograd telegram, Mme. Breskovskaya, grandmother of the Russian revolution, was shot on Oct. 27, on the charge of opposing the bolshevik regime.

Special dispatches from London on Oct. 16 said that Mme. Breskovskaya was reported to have died in Russia on Sept. 14.

FAIR AND WARMER TONIGHT AND TOMORROW, FORECAST

Official forecast for St. Louis and vicinity: Fair and warmer tonight and tomorrow.

AMERICAN FIRST
ARMY OPENS HEAVY ARTILLERY ATTACK

Greatly Increased Fire by Heavy and Light Batteries Is Started All Along Front.

By the Associated Press. NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Nov. 1.—There have been many indications in the last few days that the Germans intend to retire as slowly and strategically as possible from their present positions, especially west of the Meuse, and possibly withdraw entirely from non-German soil. The vicinity of Metz will continue to be the pivot of this retreating movement, because of its strategic importance.

Much evidence of this intention on the part of the enemy is especially noticeable on the front of the American Second Army in the Woerth. Deserters from the German lines and prisoners corroborate this information, and so the German command has been taking every bit of war material in the region and transporting light and heavy guns into German territory east of Metz.

Even reports of artillery having been sent from the front east of St. Quentin to the Metz and Vosges regions have been received, and it is believed the Germans have been tearing up narrow-gauge railways on some sectors.

Meanwhile, the Germans are organizing strong defense positions on the front of the second army. They have made preparations for meeting attacks of all kinds and special measures have been taken against a possible tank attack. The artillery has been echeloned at great depth and corps and divisional headquarters are being moved to the rear.

The theory is that the Germans intend to hold stubbornly to this sector, while swinging back on the north, pivoting on Metz. The Germans show great nervousness on the American front.

The Germans now are removing the civil population in advance of the retreat of their armies from French soil. A document captured by American soldiers contains instructions for rounding up the male population capable of bearing arms, and all cattle. All division commanders are ordered hereafter to search each district systematically and to deliver under guard to the local commander all men between 14 and 60, together with all cattle. Concentration camps will be established near the headquarters for the civilians who are to be removed. The cattle will be taken to the nearest slaughter houses. The German order also provides that all horses must be taken and concludes: "The purpose in view cannot be accomplished except by proceeding without the slightest consideration."

BRITISH RESUME OFFENSIVE SOUTH OF VALENCIENNES

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Nov. 1.—British troops in minor enterprises near Le Quesnoy Thursday captured a number of prisoners. Field Marshal Haig reports today.

The British troops resumed the offensive south of Valenciennes this morning. Field Marshal Haig says good progress is being made.

Violent Artillery Battles Along the Oise, Near Guise.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, Nov. 1.—Violent artillery battles were in progress during last night on the French front along the Oise, near Guise, and in the Aisne.

TURKEY WAS SMOKED OUT.

Official forecast for St. Louis and vicinity: Fair and warmer tonight and tomorrow.

Stages of the river at 7 a. m.: 2.5, rise of .3 of a foot.

Kaiser Has Gone to German Headquarters,
Says Berlin Dispatch

By the Associated Press. COPENHAGEN, Nov. 1.—EMPEROR WILLIAM has left Berlin for German grand headquarters, a message from the German capital today states.

By the Associated Press. COPENHAGEN, Nov. 1.—Count Tisza, former Hungarian Premier, has been killed by a soldier, according to a Budapest telegram today. The Count was shot with a revolver while he was out walking.

By the Associated Press. BASEL, Nov. 1.—Count Tisza was promenading with his family when he was shot, a Budapest dispatch received here by way of Berlin announces. A woman member of his group was wounded, it is added.

Count Tisza has long been one of the storm centers of Hungarian politics. He was known as "the iron man" of Austro-Hungary. The assassination of Archduke Ferdinand, a Magyar to the core, Count Tisza was pro-German and aimed constantly at the supremacy of Hungary over Austria within the dual monarchy.

Count Tisza was Premier of Hungary from 1903 to 1905 and from June 6, 1913, to May 23, 1917. He was the center of many riots during his leadership, and in 1913 fought at least three duels with political opponents. In January of that year he wounded Count Michael Károlyi, a life-long and bitter opponent, in a duel.

Within the last year he had urged peace, and in a speech Oct. 13 declared he no longer had hopes for an Austro-German victory.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate Count Tisza in Budapest Oct. 17.

ADVANCING ITALIANS FIND VENETIAN PLAIN DESOLATED

Austrians Said to Have Refused Food to Sick Children During Recent Influenza Epidemic.

By the Associated Press. ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS EAST OF THE PIAVE, Thursday, Oct. 31.—The Venetian plain, immediately east of the Piave is a scene of desolation. Houses and villages have been ruined by shell fire. When the advancing Italians reached Sacile they were removed as liberators and the women and children of the town were taken before them.

During a recent influenza epidemic in the town the Austrians are said to have rejected appeals from mothers for food for their sick children.

King Victor Emmanuel has been traveling recently from place to place, giving orders for succor for the exhausted population.

INDICTMENTS TOMORROW IN AIRCRAFT INQUIRY PROBABLE

Statement by Office of U. S. Attorney in Chicago: Men to Be Named in All Live in Chicago.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—It was said at the office of the United States District Attorney here today that indictments probably would be returned tomorrow in connection with the aircraft investigation.

The men to be named all live in Chicago, it was said.

Will Entrain Nov. 9, but Volunteers Will Be Accepted Up to Nov. 5.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Provost Marshal-General Crowder today called 1100 men for the service in the navy, to entrain from 15 states and the District of Columbia by Nov. 5.

Volunteer inductions will be accepted until Nov. 5, after which, if necessary, draft boards will fill the quota.

AUSTRIAN
COLLAPSE

Italian Armies Pressing to Enemy Forces, Which Have Become Divided and East of the Piave Are Declared to Have Been Routed.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Nov. 1.—Negotiations between the Italian and Austro-Hungarian military commanders for an armistice are proceeding, according to advice received in London this afternoon. Fighting may already have come to an end.

By the Associated Press. VIENNA, via London, Nov. 1.—An Austrian deputation has been permitted to cross the fighting line for preliminary parleys with the Italian commander, according to the official announcement last night.

The statement says: "The high command of the armistice early Tuesday by means of a parliamentary established communication with the Italian army command. Every effort is to be made for the avoidance of further useless sacrifice of blood, for the cessation of hostilities and the conclusion of an armistice."

"Towards this step, which was animated by the best intentions, the Italian high command at first assumed an attitude of unmistakable refusal, and it was only on the evening of Wednesday that, in accordance with the Italian high command, Gen. Weber, accompanied by a deputation, was permitted to cross the fighting line for preliminary parleys."

"If, therefore, the cruelties of warfare must continue in the Italian theater of the war the guilt and responsibility will have to be ascribed to the enemy."

Reported Text of Austrian Commander's Request.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, Nov. 1.—Information says the text of the Austro-Hungarian communication to the Italian supreme command asking an immediate suspension of hostilities, reads: "If hostilities are suspended, the evacuation of the Venetian plain, now in a good state of cultivation, would be accomplished without any damage whatever to the country. For this reason the Italian supreme command is asked to take the necessary dispositions with a view to the immediate suspension of hostilities."

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Wednesday, Oct. 30, 8 p. m.—In answer to Austria's announcement that she was ready to evacuate Italian territory, Italy has officially replied that the offer has come too late. It is assumed the Italian will endeavor to drive the Austro-Hungarians from Italian soil before an armistice can be signed.

Gen. Diaz, the Italian Commander in Chief, issued the following bulletin to his troops: "Soldiers, forward! In Italy's name we will place the wreath of victory on the tombs of our glorious dead. Forward! Our immortal country calls!"

Italians Pressing Enemy Strongly on Monte Grappa Front.

By the Associated Press. ROME, Nov. 1.—In their offensive against the Austrians on the Monte Grappa front, in Northern Italy, the Italians have pressed the enemy so strongly that his front has collapsed, the War Office announced today.

The Italians have forced the Gorge of Quero, have passed beyond the upper end of Montebello and are advancing by the Gorge of Quero.

"We are still at war," Gen. Williams stated. "Our boys in France are depending on us for guns and ammunition. The enemy is in a peace talk, but we of the Ordnance department have nothing to do but peace talk. Our business, responsibility, is war."

MUNITION OUTPUT MUST GO ON

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—An appeal to munitions workers not to slow up in their work as a result of peace talk has been issued by Major-General Williams, Chief of Ordnance.

MORE CASUALTIES IN 138TH, ALSO IN 128TH ARTILLERY

Frederick Stange of D Battery Killed on Oct. 2 While Driving an Ammunition Truck Through a Ravine.

NEIGHBOR NEARBY WRITES OF FATALITY

Lieut. Clarence W. Schnelle, Formerly a St. Louis Lawyer and Member of 138th, Died of Wounds Oct. 1.

Casualties in the 128th Field Artillery, the St. Louis artillery unit, and in the 138th Infantry, the St. Louis National Guard regiment, predominate in the St. Louis list of dead and wounded, made known in the last 24 hours through official sources or through private sources of information. The 138th was in the forefront of the Argonne battle in the last week of September and the 128th was supporting it. Both are in the Thirty-fifth Division.

Virgil C. Pentz, 29, of D Company, 138th, was killed in action, according to a message received by his brother, Arthur Pentz of 3620 Dunnic street, from his mother, who lives in Dorchester, Mass., and who received the official notification. The brother did not learn the date of the death, of which the mother was notified two days ago.

Roy E. Brem, 21, of D Company, 138th, died from wounds Sept. 30, according to an official notice received last night by his mother, Mrs. Anna M. Brem of 1353A Bayard avenue. He was an employee of the Wagner Electric Co., and enlisted in the First Regiment in March, 1917. He was an only son and had two sisters, Miss Ruth Brem of 4040A North Twenty-third street.

Oscar Flori, 23, of C Company, 128th, was killed in action Sept. 26, according to a letter sent by a tenant in that company to Flori's brother, Edward G. Flori, a grocery proprietor at 615 Hamilton avenue. The lieutenant wrote that he attended the funeral of Flori, who was formerly a bookkeeper for the National Tube Co. in the Third National Bank Building.

Sergeant Schmitt Reported Killed. First Sergeant Irvin Schmitt, 28, of F Company, 138th, is named as having been killed, in a letter written to acquaintances by Corp. Fred H. Sterbenz of C Company, 128th Field Signal Battalion, a St. Louisan. Schmitt was the son of Charles Schmitt of 2701A Cass avenue, an Alsatian, who came to the United States after Prussia had seized Alsace in 1871.

Sterbenz, in letter to his father, E. R. Sterbenz, of 4216 Russell avenue, also reported the deaths of two other members of the 138th. Sergeant Harvey A. Hogue, 31, of F Company, 138th, is named as having been killed in the Argonne battle. Hogue was in the old First Regiment, and served on the Mexican border in 1916. For two years before going to camp in 1917, he had been a complaint clerk for the Laclede Gas Light Co. He had no relatives in St. Louis.

Charles Martens of D Company, 128th, was killed in action Sept. 26, the same letter stated. Martens' home was at 3216 Dakota avenue. Martens was an employee of the Post-Dispatch pressroom, and was the first Post-Dispatch employee reported as killed.

No official confirmation of any of the casualties reported by Sterbenz has been received. Lieut. Clarence W. Schnelle, 28, of E Company, 138th, died Oct. 1, according to a telegram received by his widowed mother, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. F. B. Adam, at 3128 Allen avenue.

Schnelle was a lawyer, in partnership with H. W. Blodgett. He joined the First Regiment in 1915 and went with it to the border in 1916. He had recently written his relatives that he was serving as regimental adjutant, and was commanding E Company. He had an opportunity in August to return to the United States to act as instructor, but declined, preferring to remain at the front.

Wrote of Kenamore's Article. In a letter to his mother, written Sept. 3, Lieut. Schnelle said he was too busy to write a long letter, and advised her to read Clair Kenamore's articles in the Post-Dispatch as the best means of keeping in touch with the affairs of the 138th.

Frederick Stange, 26, of D Battery, 128th, was killed in action Oct. 2, according to an official notification received last night by his brother, August Stange, of 3805 Maffitt avenue.

Finds Friend Killed. The same information had come to the brother several days ago, in a letter from Edward Weber of 3803 E. Louis avenue, a comrade of Frederick Stange. Weber said Stange was killed by shrapnel while driving an ammunition truck through a ravine at Very France. "We were on a hill-top when we received a first-aid signal from the ravine," Weber wrote. "I was greatly surprised, on reaching the ravine, to find that my friend and neighbor had been killed."

Frederick Stange was formerly a locomotive fireman for the Terminal Association, and was in the first draft contingent.

Four St. Louisans Who Gave Their Lives Fighting in France

JOHN DONALDSON MCCARTHY
LIEUT. CLARENCE W. SCHNELLE

ARTHUR MCILVOY. JAMES B. DAFFERN

Lieut. Clarence W. Schnelle of E Company, 138th Infantry, formerly a St. Louis lawyer, died Oct. 1 from wounds inflicted in the Argonne battle. His widowed mother lives at 3128 Allen avenue.

James B. Daffern of M Company, 138th, died from wounds on the same day, leaving a young bride and a widowed mother, the latter living at 5220A Kensington avenue.

Headquarters Company, 128th, was killed by a shell Oct. 1, according to a letter written to his parents by a comrade, Sergeant-Major George E. Schenk. The family lives at Florissant and Warne avenues. East St. Louis. John D. McCarthy, 22, of A Battery, 128th, was killed in action Sept. 28, according to information received by his mother, Mrs. Alby Donaldson McCarthy of 5153 Waterman avenue. He was a grandson of John W. Donaldson, stock broker, and was a graduate of Westminster College, Fulton, Mo. He was a member of A Battery, and saw service on the Mexican border in 1916.

The information came in a letter from William Preterorius Jr., who was wounded, to his parents, who live at 2850 Russell avenue. The same information came in a letter received by Mrs. John A. Warner of 5061 Enright avenue from her son, and although no official notification has come, Mrs. McCarthy has accepted the news as authentic and has caused the publication of a notice of her son's death.

Youth With Canadians Killed. Arthur McIlvoy, 19 years old, of the Twenty-second Canadian Infantry, was killed Oct. 3, according to a notification which has been received by his sister, Mrs. Charles Ragsdale of 1211 Monroe street. His mother, Mrs. Sarah McIlvoy, lives in Madison.

He enlisted in the Canadian army at the British-Canadian recruiting office here, after his mother had objected to his joining the United States Army because of his youth. A brother, Corp. Albert McIlvoy of the 245th United States Infantry, is a hand grenade instructor in France.

William Goodwin of Alta Sita, East St. Louis, a member of E Company, 124th Field Artillery, made up largely of East St. Louisans, is reported killed in action Oct. 1, in a letter received by John D. Huddle of 2914 Virginia place, East St. Louis, from his son, Corp. Elmer Huddle of the 124th. No official information has come.

Eugene Stephen Schrautemeier, 25, a member of the Eighty-third Company, Sixth Regiment, Marines, has been missing since June 8, according to an official telegram to his father, Bernard H. Schrautemeier of 1718 Cora avenue. Schrautemeier was a clerk in the Mechanics-American Bank. He enlisted in the Marines in April, 1917, and had written home regularly until June 3.

Man Reported Dead May Be Alive. Charles B. Kehoe of E Company, 138th Infantry, who was officially reported killed in action Sept. 27, appears to have been alive as recently as Oct. 5, since his mother, Mrs. Mary Kehoe of 129 Carpenter place, yesterday received a letter from him bearing that date. The family had previously accepted the official notification as true, but the hope is now entertained that a mistake was made in this case, as a number of other cases in the last few weeks.

The official notification reached Mrs. Kehoe Oct. 20. In the letter dated Oct. 5 Kehoe wrote:

"I came out of the big battle O. K. (This is taken to refer to the Argonne battle). We lost heavily, but gained our points. "We went through the gates of hell and got a bunch of the black devils, and now we've gained a front seat in heaven. "Don't let anyone tell you that the Germans go hungry. We found their trenches all comented, with shower baths and electric lights. "Got one big Dutch souvenir for you. "Well, I can't tell you much more been wounded. He was one of the recruits of the Fifth Regiment. Walter Pfeil of the 138th has written to his sister, Mrs. H. J. Wildberger of Ferguson, that he was gassed and wounded. Paul P. Burns of the Fifth Marine Regiment, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Burns of 6408 Wellmar avenue, was wounded severely in one leg in the St. Mihiel fighting, his parents have been informed.

Charles E. Winters, 26, of F Company, 329th Infantry, has been wounded slightly, according to a notice sent to his mother, Mrs. Ida Winters of Jerseyville. He was drafted last spring, and has a brother in the service.

Joseph L. Diffett of the 147th Infantry was slightly wounded Oct. 1, his mother, Mrs. Kate Diffett of 463 North B street, East St. Louis, has been notified.

Lieut. Joseph C. Aldous, son of James H. Aldous of 500 State street, Alton, has been wounded by machine gun fire according to information reaching his father, and has been removed to a hospital in London. He was formerly secretary and treasurer of the Mississippi Sand Co. at Alton.

ALTON MAN IS FOUND GUILTY OF DISLOYALTY

W. F. WEHMEYER TRIED FOR MAKING SPEECHES AGAINST ARMY RECRUITING.

William F. Wehmeyer of Quincy, Ill., was found guilty by a jury in the United States District Court today on a charge of making utterances intended to obstruct the recruiting and enlistment service of the United States.

These remarks were alleged to have been made in a saloon and in an address to a crowd in front of the Federal Bank Building, Broadway and Pine street, on Labor day, 1917, while a labor parade was passing. Sentence was deferred by Judge Munger.

The principal charge in the counts on which Wehmeyer was convicted was that he said the United States was fighting for Wall street and not for the best interests of the country.

The Judge's Instructions. In his instructions to the jury, Judge Munger made specific reference to this allegation and said that such a remark must be construed as obstructing the recruiting service.

He also told the jurors that it was not necessary to make obstructive remarks to officers engaged in recruiting. There were other agencies of recruiting, including postmen, he said, and remarks might tend to raise doubts in the minds of those who might read these recruiting posters.

The instructions said that criticism of President Wilson or any other Government official was not sufficient ground for a charge of obstructing recruiting. "The expression that President Wilson was a political grafter is not to be considered obstructive," said the Court. "It is merely criticism of an official."

Must Obstruct Recruiting. "Also the remark: 'If it was not for wooden-headed Woodrow we would not be in this war' cannot be considered obstructive," said the Judge. It does not affect the military branch of the Government. Criticism of officials or even of Generals themselves, still permissible. Under this chart, the law does not punish any language, however vulgar, outrageous or unpatriotic, unless it actually obstructs the enlistment and recruiting service."

As to intent the court said: "A man must do this willfully for the purpose of obstruction. Of course if a man is drunk he could not be in possession of his full mental faculties and therefore could not do such a thing knowingly and willfully."

The trial of August Weir, former Deputy License Collector, on a charge of violating the espionage act, was adjourned to follow Wehmeyer's trial.

A demurrer to the indictment of Henry Dickhoner on a charge of disloyalty was filed, but action on it was deferred.

De Soto Man Pleads Guilty of Making Disloyal Remarks. Carl Walther of De Soto, Mo., indicted on a charge of making disloyal utterances on April 17, yesterday withdrew his plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty in the United States District Court to two counts of the eight in the indictment. The remaining six counts were nolle prossed. Sentence was deferred by Judge Munger.

Walther was charged with having said that he "wouldn't wear a Red Cross button. That is all bunk and the Government will never be able to pay for the Liberty Bonds."

Gasoline for Overseas First. WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Official demand for gasoline and kerosene is to have precedence over all domestic requirements under an order issued by the Fuel Administration. No manufacture of gasoline or kerosene will be permitted to make deliveries to domestic consumers, even though under contract to do so, whereby a default is incurred in the delivery of the products for export for the United States army or navy or for the allies.

Minor Casualties Caspelle. Minor casualties comprise most of the new items in today's official casualty list for St. Louis and vicinity.

Sergeant Leslie A. Pettus of I Company, 138th, has written to his wife, living at 4713 Page boulevard, that he was gassed in the Argonne battle. He mentions, in his letter, the death of Capt. Alexander R. Skinker of I Company, which has been unofficially reported from other sources, and has been accepted by the family as an established fact. In his letter, Pettus says, "Thank God, that place (the Forest of Argonne) is taken."

William Franey, 19, of A Company, 138th, son of Mrs. John Franey of 20 North Third street, East St. Louis, was wounded in the left foot with shrapnel in the Argonne battle, he has written to her. He said he expected to return to duty soon.

Leland F. Miller of E Company, 138th, was slightly wounded, and has been in a base hospital, according to a telegram sent to his parents, Mrs. and Mrs. O. Miller of 3438 Magnolia avenue.

Sergeant Edward Griffin, 20, of B Company, 138th, and Mechanic Peter M. Griffin of C Company, sons of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Griffin of 3569 Shenandoah avenue, have been wounded according to a Red Cross notification received by the family. Both were formerly employed by the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. at its downtown headquarters, and were recruits in the Fifth Regiment.

Joseph H. Cunningham, 20, of B Company, 138th, is listed as wounded slightly. He was formerly a clerk for the Wabash Railroad, and lived at the home of his aunt, Mrs. George D. Morton, 4418 Swan avenue. He has written to his aunt and to a neighbor since Sept. 8, the date officially given for the casualty, but has not mentioned having been wounded.

Cook Raymond J. Knoll, 20, A Company, 138th, of 1131 North Channing avenue, has written to friends here that he "was gassed and shot up" in the Argonne battle and is in a hospital. He is a son of John Knoll, and enlisted early in 1917.

George R. Baird, 27, of F Company, 138th, is listed as wounded, degree undetermined. He is the son of Mrs. Theresa Baird of 2162 School street and worked as a paper hanger before he enlisted in the First Regiment in August, 1917.

Harry M. Zatterella, 28, of M Company, 159th Infantry, son of Mrs. B. Zatterella of 4216 Kosuth avenue, was wounded slightly Aug. 1. He was formerly employed as a driver. He has written his mother that he was gassed.

Aloysius G. Neuwirth of D Company, 138th, has written to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Neuwirth of 3501 Kingsland Court, that he has

SONS LEFT NOTHING BY D. D. WALKER'S WILL

Miss Martha Pittman, Granddaughter, Is Bequeathed $215,000 in Stocks and Insurance.

Miss Martha Pittman, a graduate of Sacred Heart convent, is the chief beneficiary under the will of her grandfather, David D. Walker Sr., founder of Ely & Walker Dry Goods Co., which was offered for probate yesterday, and which cuts off his three sons, G. H. David Jr., and William H. Walker. Miss Pittman is bequeathed stocks and insurance totaling $215,000, besides a half interest in the Walker residence at 5 Horne street.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Pittman, who are dead. Her mother, Mrs. Pittman, was Miss Mabel Walker, D. D. Walker's only daughter. For the last few years she and her grandfather have lived together at his summer home in Kennebunkport, Me., and his winter home at Santa Barbara, Cal. She is now visiting her uncle, David Pittman, at 238 North Newstead avenue.

$10,000 for Belgian Relief. After making many bequests to charitable institutions, friends, former employees and domestics in the families of his relatives, Walker provided, in a codicil to his will, that the remainder should be divided, half to go to the St. Louis chapter of the Red Cross, and the other to be used by Archbishop Glennon in relieving distress among poor white women and children of the city.

A specific bequest of $10,000 was made to be used by the Red Cross in aiding destitute Belgians. Archbishop Glennon was bequeathed $10,000 to be used "for a purpose with which he is fully acquainted."

It was stated in the will by the testator that "before making my will, I destroyed a note for $30,000, signed by my son David Walker Jr." He also stated that he had loaned his son, G. H. Walker, 1000 shares of Ely & Walker stock, and desires that these may be held in trust for G. H. Walker's children.

Suit Questioned Sanity. The elder Walker died Oct. 4 last, while proceedings to have him declared of unsound mind were pending against him, instituted by his sons, D. D. and G. H. Walker. The will is dated Dec. 30, 1916.

The elder Walker's aversion to his sons is expressed in several places in the will, although he made many bequests to their children and to their wives. An original clause of the will, later annulled, was that half of the residue of the estate should go to Mrs. G. H. Walker, "on condition that her husband should have Miss Pittman said to a reporter today that she had not known of her grandfather's intention to make her his principal heir. She has no plans for the future, founded on the inheritance, she said. To a question as to her age she laughed and replied: "I went to Sacred Heart convent about 16 or 17 years ago. I figure it out for yourself."

She is slightly under medium size, has dark brown hair and blue eyes. She is athletic. The Imperial Club Junior League and Children's Aid Society are the only St. Louis organizations with which she is connected.

Besides the interest in the family residence, the bequests made to her by Walker are 600 shares of Ely & Walker stock, valued at $60,000; 10 shares of Laclede Gas, valued at $42,500; 250 shares of Delaware Hudson Railway, at $29,000; 10 shares Mercantile Trust, at $33,700 and $50,000 life insurance.

A. BURT CHAMPION SANITY HEARING SET FOR THURSDAY

Summons Served on Webster Groves Man Yesterday, After Leaving Stand in Maintenance Hearing.

A hearing on the sanity of A. Burt Champion of Webster Groves, demanded by his former wife's sister, Mrs. Gilbert Strelinger of the Usona Hotel, has been set in the Probate Court for next Thursday.

Summons in the hearing was handed Champion yesterday as he left the stand after testifying in the hearing of the motion of his wife, Mrs. Gladys Champion, who seeks an increased allowance for the support of their 8-year-old son and permission to take him to Florida to escape influenza. Judge Klene adjourned the hearing until after the Probate Court action.

While Mrs. Strelinger was on the stand in Judge Klene's court Saturday, she testified that Champion had declared to her that he was making money out of the war. "You're a liar," Champion said, and he was fined $25 for contempt of court.

Lieut. Earl C. Sherry of the 77th Infantry has written to his wife, who lives at 6661 Pershing avenue, that he was wounded in the face by a shell, but that his sight was not affected.

Mostly Minor Casualties. Minor casualties comprise most of the new items in today's official casualty list for St. Louis and vicinity.

decided to make a vigorous campaign against the election of W. M. Riley of 224 North Jefferson avenue, a negro, as a Republican representative in the Legislature for the Fourth District.

Riley was nominated at the Au-ago few voters in the district knew he was a negro. The Association will have a house-to-house canvass of the district made to inform voters about Riley's race.

GREGORY'S VIEWS ON 'SUBSTANTIAL ACCORD'

Chief Item of Waste Placed at About $24,000,000—
Delays, Changes of Plans and High Profits Specified.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The mistakes, failures, delays and wastages of the airplane production program under the administration of the old aircraft boards before the reorganization of last May are detailed at length in the report of the investigation conducted by Charles E.
Hughes and Attorney-General Gregory, which was before the country today after having been made public at the White House.

The report deals unsparingly with the shortcomings of the old organization and recommends courtmartial proceedings for one army officer concerned and criminal prosecutions for three others.

The chief blame for the failures is charged by the Hughes report to defective organization in the army signal corps and the lack of competent direction of the work by the responsible officers of the corps.

The report finds there were delays in getting airplane models from the allies and preparing specifications for their production; that plans frequently were changed to the embarrassment of contractors; that some manufacturers well qualified by organization and experience could not get orders, while others apparently with few qualifications, if any, did get them, and that there was confusion and waste in the plants.

Some Profits "Enormous."
Profits, in some instances, Hughes reports, were enormous, although Attorney-General Gregory points out that 60 per cent of these profits revert to the Government in the form of war taxes, and expresses the belief "that no such profits were allowed as to justify a charge of bad faith."

The Dayton-Wright corporation, the report says, with a capital of $1,000,000, and Government financing to the extent of $1,405,000, has prospects of profits of more than $6,000,000. The Ford Motor Co., on contracts for 5000 Liberty motors, the report estimates, will make a profit of more than $5,000,000, on an investment of not more than $11-800,000. The Fisher Body Corporation, with an investment of $860,000, and Government financing of $2-

NO CRAFT CHARGES IN HUGHES' REPORT ON AIRCRAFT MUDDLE

600,000, the report says, is estimated to make a profit of $2,500,000. The Packard Motor Co., with calculated investment of $11,808,000, and a contract for 6000 Liberty motors, is estimated to be about to realize profits of $6,460,000 on 17 months' work. The Lincoln Motor Co., with paid in capital of $850,000, and investment of $7,150,000, of which $3,460,000 represents items on which the Government pays 40 per cent depreciation, is estimated to have in prospect, or in hand, profits of $7,150,000.

For a whole year after the country entered the war, the report says, the equipment division of the signal corps of the army was badly organized with "a host of sections and departments with ill-defined functions, creating disorder and confusion rather than sustained, well directed and expert effort."

The report was prepared by Hughes after some 250 witnesses had been examined and, in transmitting it to the President, Attorney-General Gregory said he was in substantial accord with the findings of Hughes and did not deem it necessary to transmit reports heretofore prepared by the Department of Justice.

Recommends Criminal Action.

While there is no charge of "graft," the report recommended that criminal proceedings be brought against three army officers on charges of dealing with corporations in which they were financially interested.

Lieutenant-Colonel Vincent, former vice president of the Packard Motor Car Co. and now in charge of the airplane division of the Aircraft Production Bureau; Lieutenant-Colonel George W. Minter, stockholder in the Curtiss Airplane and Motor Corporation, and production manager of the Aircraft Bureau, and Lieut. Samuel B. Vrooman Jr., inspector of properties, member of the subject of much criticism that brought on a court martial for sending confidential War Department information to former business associates at Dayton, O., and for sponsoring "a grossly misleading statement" last February about progress of production.

The report exonerated from any wrongdoing the civilian personnel of the Aircraft Production Board.

No criticism was offered of the management of aircraft affairs since the reorganization of last May, when John D. Ryan was placed in charge of production. In concluding his report, Hughes said that "it should be said that under the direction of Mr. Ryan and Mr. Potter (William C. Potter, assistant director of aircraft production) there had been improvement in the organization and progress has been made in gratifying measure."

Chief Waste About $24,000,000. The report said that the chief waste was in the abandonment of the Bristol fighter and the Standard J-1 and a failure to salvage, aggregate about $24,000,000, some of which probably can be saved.

Other charges which Hughes declared substantiated in part were: Delay in getting model planes from the allies and in preparing specifications for their reproduction.

Frequent changing of plans, both of airplanes and Liberty motors. High profits to manufacturers, both of planes and engines.

That in pushing for speed in production, confusion and waste occurred in plants.

That some manufacturers well qualified for production were not given contracts, while others poorly prepared were given orders.

That many plants engaged in airplane manufacture lacked knowledge and experience.

Of the original appropriation of $691,531,866, the report showed that disbursements reported to last June 30, including advances for building plants, and other expenses amounted to $240,000,000, and $276,000,000 of the appropriations remained unexpended. Of the total expenditures, $155,000,000 went for manufacture of airplanes and engines at home and overseas.

As to actual performances the report showed that to last June 30, 6171 airplanes had been delivered by manufacturers, of which 5818 were training planes and 533 combat and bombing planes. Of the fighting machines, 529 were De Havillands and 24 were of the abandoned Bristol design.

Airplane engines delivered up to that time amounted to 12,632, of which 2390 were Liberty motors for combat and bombing planes, 7662 were for elementary training machines and 2579 for advanced training planes. The original program for Liberty motors alone had called for about 17,000 of these by June.

Up to Oct. 11, 9674 airplanes were built, of which 5137 were for elementary training, 2137 were for advanced training and 2390 were for observation and bombing service. In the same time, 24,672 engines had been finished, of which 7639 were Liberty motors.

Conclusions of Report. The general conclusions and recommendations by Hughes follow:

"The evidence discloses conduct which, although of a reprehensible character, cannot be regarded as affording a sufficient basis for charges under existing statutes, but there are certain acts shown not only highly improper in themselves, but of special significance, which should lead to disciplinary measures. The evidence with respect to Col. Edward A. Deeds should be presented to the Secretary of War, to the end that Col. Deeds may be tried by court-martial under articles 95 and 96 of the Articles of War for his conduct (1) in acting as confidential adviser of his former business associate, H. E. Talbot of the Dayton-Wright Airplane Co. and in conveying information of business between that company and the division of the Signal Corps of which Col. Deeds was the head; and (2) in giving to the representatives of the Committee on Public Information a false and misleading statement with regard to the progress of aircraft production, for the purpose of publication with the authority of the Secretary of War.

IN HUGHES' REPORT ON AIRCRAFT MUDDLE

Suggests Further Inquiry.
"The absence of proper appreciation of the obvious impropriety of transactions by Government officers and agents with firms or corporations in which they are interested compels the conclusion that public policy demands that the statutory provisions bearing upon this conduct should be strictly enforced. It is therefore recommended that the officers found to have had transactions with corporations in the pecuniary profits of which they had an interest should be prosecuted under section 41 of the Criminal Code.

"The Federal Trade Commission should be requested to report upon the proper cost of mahogany for airplane propellers, to the end that upon the coming of its report the question of the propriety of further action with respect to the transactions of the Mahogany Manufacturers and Importers' Association may be determined.

"It is recommended that the representatives of the Department of Justice should keep in touch with the progress of the readjustment of accounts, so that it may be advised of the complete enforcement of the rights of the Government in final settlement of accounts, and that the Government has been fully protected against unnecessary loss through waste and the absence of suitable factory supervision.

"Permit me also to suggest that a special division or subdivision of the present Bureau of Investigation in the Department of Justice should be assigned to the consideration of suggested delinquencies in connection with aircraft production, so that the work already done may be appropriately followed. In particular, it is recommended that the activities in relation to spruce production, which being largely centered on the Pacific Coast, it was impracticable to embrace in the present inquiry, should carefully be scrutinized.

No Intentional Delays.
"An exhaustive examination," says Gregory's letter of transmittal, "into the entire conduct of aircraft matters fails to show that any member of either branch has any desire to retard or delay production or has done anything to accomplish that result, or has intentionally caused the waste of funds, or been actuated by a disloyal motive, or been guilty of dishonesty or less than honest dealing, or truth in the specific charges which will now be referred to. (The charges against Deeds and the officers accused of dealing with concerns in which they were interested.)

"I agree with the conclusion reached by Judge Hughes that there is no evidence upon which it may fairly be charged that any member of the Aircraft Boards, including Mr. Howard Coffin, Gen. Squier, Col. E. A. Deeds, Col. R. L. Montgomery, Col. S. D. Watidron, Mr. Richard F. Howe, Mr. Harry E. Thayer, Admiral Taylor and other naval officers, has been unlawfully interested in any contract or transaction relating to aircraft production. Indeed, as to this charge, there has at no time been ground for a question involving any of these gentlemen except Col. Deeds."

Turning to the question of profits by contractors for airplanes and motors, Hughes cites figures showing that manufacturers were enabled to make as much as $1000 on each Liberty motor, and from $750 to $1500 on each finished plane. Profits in some cases were several hundred per cent of the investment, the report says.

Discussion of Profits.
Gregory, in his letter, points out that 60 per cent or more of the profits were taken by the Government in taxes, and concludes that "no such profits have been allowed as to justify a charge of bad faith."

Hughes explains that the principal orders were placed on the basis of cost plus a fixed, not a percentage, profit, and a bonus of 25 per cent of any economies under an estimated cost, or "bogiey."

"The 'bogiey' costs," says Hughes, "were in all cases placed so high that the contractor has every reason to expect that the actual cost would be much less and that through its share in this saving the contractor would be able to derive an increased profit from economical management. It is apparent, however, that with a large fixed profit guaranteed, the incentive to economy is not so strong as when the entire venture is at the contractor's risk."

Gregory's comment on the Hughes report of high profits is as follows: "It has been charged that exorbitant profits to contractors have been allowed. On their face they appear to be unusually liberal, but when it is remembered that 60 per cent or more of this must be paid to the Government as income and excess profits taxes and that most of the net profits are invested in buildings and facilities which may or may not be capable of profitable use for an indefinite period after the termination of the contract, my conclusion is that no such profits have been allowed as to justify a charge of bad faith."

Signal Corps Defects.
Taking up the question of faulty organization of the Signal Corps after the declaration of war, Hughes declares Major-General George O. Squier "had neither training nor experience for such a large industrial enterprise."

Referring to Deeds, Hughes cites Deeds' own testimony that he was a stockholder and officer in a number of Dayton, O., concerns which either directly or indirectly were concerned in the airplane production activities about the city. He was an organizer, but not a stockholder, in the Dayton Wright Airplane Co., and it was to H. E. Talbot, an officer in this company, the report says, that Deeds sent information of a ruling of the Judge Advocate-General relating to the appraisal of contracts after he had been commissioned in the army.

Other confidential communications sent to Talbot and other business associates in Dayton while Deeds was acting in an advisory capacity to officers in charge of contracts are quoted. For that Deeds became an officer, the investigation by court-martial was recommended.

Hughes also disputes parts of Deeds' assertion in a letter to the Aircraft Production Board that on being commissioned he had severed his official connections with and transferred his stock in these concerns: The United Motors Co. of New York, the Dayton Engineering Laboratories Co., Dayton Metal Products Co. and the Domestic Building Co. of Dayton.

Says Transfer Was to His Wife.
He transferred stock in the United Motors Corporation to his wife, the report says. It was shown, and book accounts showing the time of the

Influenza, Sore Throat
Colds, Pneumonia.

Yields Quickly to Antiseptic Oil Treatment

Many are finding relief from Influenza, Colds, Sore Throat, and perhaps preventing pneumonia, it is said, by the use of Miller's Antiseptic Oil (known as Snake Oil). Its great penetrating, pain relieving qualities insure almost instant relief when applied freely on the chest or throat well greased when first symptoms arise. The oil penetrates through to the affected parts and tends to open up the air passages, making breathing more easy, relieving the pains. And for the cough a few drops on a little sugar usually brings prompt relief. Don't fail to have a bottle on hand when the attack comes on and if used according to directions results are assured, or your money refunded. On sale at Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and Enderle Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo., and all druggists, 30c, 60c and $1.00 bottles.

WHY RUN-DOWN PALE EXHAUSTED WOMEN SHOULD TAKE IRON

"There can be no beautiful, healthy, ruddy-colored, steady-nerved woman without iron. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses go from their cheeks—their charm and attractiveness depart. I always insist that my patients take organic iron—Nuxated Iron—not metallic iron which often corrodes the stomach and does more harm than good. Nuxated Iron is easily assimilated, does not blacken nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, irritable, careworn, haggard women in two weeks' time in many cases. I have used it in my own practice with most surprising results."—Ferdinand M.D., well-known New York Physician and medical author. (Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.—On sale at all good druggists.)

transacted any business with those firms before he transferred his stock, no criminal charges are made against him. Col. Sydney D. Waldron, assistant to Deeds, when he was Chief of the Equipment Division of the Signal Corps, was shown, the report says, to have been a stockholder in the Packard company, but it does not appear that he took part in any proceedings involving Government dealings with the concern. Col. Robert L. Montgomery also held stock in the companies holding contracts for manufacture of airplanes or parts, but he did not deal with them in his capacity as an officer.

Maj. Howard C. Marmon, a signal corp officer, also is cited for his connections with the Nordyke & Marmon Co. of Indianapolis, which held a contract for Liberty motors, but since he has transferred his stock to his mother, the report holds, there is insufficient ground for a criminal charge against him.

Cadets Held at Training Camps. One of the most regrettable incidents of the delay in production, says the report, is that on account of the scarcity of training planes, hundreds of cadets were held at concentration camps abroad for several months "without suitable training."

The report is supplemented by 17,000 pages of testimony from 280 witnesses. Concerning Hughes' report, which covers 182 printed pages, Gregory, in his letter to President Wilson, says:

"By far the greater portion is devoted to a remarkably accurate statement of substantially all the transactions since the beginning of the war in the course of the development of the aircraft program." He adds that since he is in accord with the report he does not "consider it necessary to present a somewhat full report which has heretofore been prepared by the Department of Justice."

"Gregory also explained: 'I do not consider it germane to this investigation to enter into criticisms of the program or of mistakes in policy or in the exercise of judgment.'"

Another part of the Attorney-General's letter says:

"Agreeing substantially, as I do, with the statement of facts made by Judge Hughes, I am of opinion that it cannot fairly be charged that a managing officer of any contracting corporation has desired or attempted to delay production or been actuated by disloyal motives."

"Laxity Indicated at Ford Plant." Hughes, in his report, referred to the retention by Henry Ford of Carl Emde as chief of his drafting department, despite charges of pro-German utterances against Emde. After hearing complaints against Emde, Ford's reasons for keeping Emde were set forth in minutes of proceedings, saying:

"He (Ford) felt that it was a time of sacrifice—that in the next few years every man would be called upon to make some sort of sacrifice, and that possibly Mr. Emde, German-born, was making his sacrifice now when making drawings for the Liberty motor to be used ultimately against Germany."

Hughes adds that this indicated a "laxity at the Ford plant with respect to those of German sympathies, which was not at all compatible with the interests of the Government."

Comment on Liberty Motor. Each type of airplane and the causes of delay in its production is discussed separately in the report. Hughes' comment on the Liberty motor includes the following:

"It now appears to be conclusively established that the Liberty engine is a great success for observation and bombing planes, and for this purpose it has found high favor with the allies. It is too heavy for the lighter pursuit planes."

As for the early delay in the Liberty motor production program, the report says:

"There was no reason why the development of the Liberty motor should have stood in the way of the production of other motors, such as the Hispano-Suiza, for use in single center pursuit planes. But so far as the heavier observation and bombing planes are concerned, the weight of opinion is that it would have taken about as long to put any other high-power motor into successful quantity production in this country, according to our methods of manufacture, as it has taken to develop the Liberty motor."

"Making due allowances for the inevitable course of experimentation, the Liberty motor could not have been put into large production much earlier than it was."

The output of Liberty motors is far behind the original schedule, says the report, as it shows by the preliminary estimate that 775 would be delivered last May and 4425 in June, as compared with actual deliveries of 545 in May and 1048 in June. During this month alone, however, 4000 12-cylinder engines were produced. It was officially announced today.

Of the 968 Liberty motors produced up to Oct. 11, the number 6895 were for the army and 2794 were for the navy.

Complaints of Contractors. Criticizing the apparent lack of method in selecting airplane contractors and distribution work, the report says:

"There have been numerous complaints from individuals and corporations, who sought contracts unsuccessfully. The extent to which activities were centered at Dayton, the profitable contract promptly given to Col. Deeds' former business associates (referring to the Dayton-Wright company) and the preference of a small group of manufacturers in the allotment of the large contracts, created a feeling of distrust, which finds frequent expression in the record of this inquiry."

"It does not appear that in the award of these contracts there was adherence to any clearly definite principle. While offers or requests of some manufacturers went unheeded because of alleged lack of proper facilities, or of assured financial ability, in other cases contracts were made with parties equally destitute of adequate resources."

Singers Particularly Qualified. Specifically, mention is made of the case of the Singer Manufacturing

Co., which failed to receive contracts, although some officers testified it was particularly well fitted for airplane manufacture. Reference also is made to the En-

WEST POINT GRADUATES 510

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 1.—The 1920 and 1921 classes at the military academy graduated today, furnishing 510 new Second Lieutenants for the army.

The present fourth class, which entered last summer, will be graduated next June, it is announced, and a new class to enter the academy next Saturday. The new Lieutenants will join their commands after short leaves.

STUDENTS ORDERED TO REPORT

Maj. Craig Says W. U. Work Will Be Military for Present.

INFLUENZA RULE CAUSES DELAY TO SOME TRAVELERS

East St. Louisans Crowd Suburban Cars to Exclusion of Persons Living in Outlying Districts.

Persons living in Lebanon, O'Fallon and other nearby Illinois towns did not get home until late last night because East St. Louisans filled the interurban cars to the limit allowed under the anti-influenza regulations. Only 25 standing passengers are permitted.

Although East St. Louisans, in most instances, had but a few blocks to go, they refused to take city cars and policemen to whom conductors appealed refused to adjust the situation and ordered the interurban cars to proceed with their loads of city passengers while commuters were left standing at the street corners, 25 miles from home, and had to wait an hour and a half for the next interurban car.

The Lebanon limited was filled, mostly with East St. Louisans, when it reached Collinsville and Missouri avenue. A policeman there refused to interfere and a crowd of passengers for Lebanon and O'Fallon was left. Several of the East St. Louis passengers got off at Tenth street, and by the time the car reached Thirty-seventh street it was more than half empty.

NO GRAFT CHARGES IN HUGHES' REPORT ON AIRCRAFT MIDDLE

gel Aircraft Co., Niles, O., whose contract for airplanes was canceled on instructions of Secretary Baker because his brother, Harry E. Baker, was president of the company. Contracts were reinstated after Harry E. Baker withdrew from the concern.

For an entire year after the nation went to war, says the report, the equipment division of the Signal Corps was badly organized "with a host of sections and departments with ill-defined functions, creating disorder and confusion rather than sustained, well-directed and expert effort."

The Patent Rights Pool.

Discussing the pooling of aircraft patent rights in the Manufacturers' Aircraft Association, Attorney-General Gregory in his letter of transmittal said:

"Whatever may be said of the charge that this arrangement tends to discourage future inventions, one of its results was to enable the Government, through contractors, to secure the use of all necessary patents at a fixed cost and with little friction. It was not entered into until the Attorney-General had given an opinion that it did not conflict with the anti-trust laws. I find no basis for the suggestion that, in bringing it about, the members of the aircraft board were actuated by any unlawful or dishonest motives."

Hughes explained that he would not deal with the question of the legality of this agreement, and said it would require a more exhaustive examination of the patent situation than he made to ascertain whether the patent rights contributed to by the Wright-Martin Aircraft Corporation and the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation justified the arrangement to pay $2,000,000 to these concerns.

Big Salaries Paid.

Salaries paid officers of some airplane plants and charged to operating expenses, which were paid by the Government, were criticised by Hughes. He referred particularly to the officers of the Dayton-Wright Airplane Co., H. E. Talbott Sr., who received $35,000; C. F. Kettering, who received $35,000; and H. E. Talbott Jr., who received $30,000.

"Even more extraordinary," said Hughes, "was the salary of $63,000 a year paid by the Standard Aircraft Corporation at Elizabeth and Plainfield, N. J., to its president, Harry B. Mingle, a New York lawyer."

These salaries, it was explained, are subject to reduction by the Government.

Labor conditions, Hughes said, "generally were unsatisfactory."

He referred to the lack of stability of employees, saying that at the Packard plant, for instance, the labor turn-over was between 400 and 600 per cent a year.

Since the Government paid manufacturing costs, Hughes says, the tendency in many plants was to pad payrolls.

At the Curtiss plant, near Buffalo, Hughes said, "there is abundant testimony, with picturesque detail," showing that "large numbers of employees were kept on the payrolls when they were not needed; through an utter lack of decent system these men and women were paid when they did not work; men who were without work enough during the day to keep them busy were employed overtime at increased rates, and for many months there was such demoralization at this plant that it became the subject of contemptuous gossip among the employees in the community."

Prosecution will be started immediately against the three army officers recommended for prosecution, probably in the Federal Court at Washington. Criminal charges, if substantiated, would involve imprisonment of not more than two years and fine of not more than $2,000.

Secretary Baker declined to comment upon the report until he had had opportunity to read it carefully. He intimated, however, that no step would be taken by the military authorities against the army officers mentioned until the official inquiry requested by Major-General Squire, Col. Deeds and other officers connected with the airplane production had been completed. When the request was submitted, Baker said, no inquiry would be authorized until the investigation being made by the Senate and the Department of Justice had been completed.

BEAUTY HINTS FOR YOUR HAIR

How to Prevent It From Growing Gray

There is no occasion for you to look unattractive or prematurely old because of gray, streaked with gray, white or faded hair. Don't let this condition with its lack of age rob you of your youthful beauty and the wonderful opportunities which life offers. No matter how gray, prematurely gray, hairless or faded your hair might be, "La Creole" Hair Dressing will revive the color glands of nature—promote a healthy condition of the hair and scalp—and cause all of your gray or faded hair to become evenly dark, soft, lustrous and beautiful. This preparation is not a dye, but an elegant toilet requisite which is easily applied by simply combing or brushing through the hair.

USE "LA CREOLE" HAIR DRESSING to prevent your hair from growing gray and to restore a beautiful dark color to gray or faded hair. For sale by Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores, Judge & Dolph Drug Stores, and all good drug stores everywhere. Orders from out-of-town customers filled promptly upon receipt of regular price, $1.20.—ADVERTISEMENT.

PRAISE FOR ST. LOUIS WOMEN IN BOND DRIVE

Miss Wade Receives Congratulations for Women in Eighth Federal Reserve District.

IT is with pride that the women of St. Louis, as well as those of the whole Eighth Federal Reserve District, can point to the excellent work done by them in the recently completed Fourth Liberty Loan. Miss Florence Wade, chairman of the Eighth Federal Reserve District, received a telegram yesterday from Mrs. Antoinette Funk, national vice chairman of the Women's Committee, congratulating her on the splendid showing of the women of this district.

The returns show that one-third of the entire quota was raised by women and that the final percentage will be larger than that of the Third Loan. Much of the credit is attributed to Miss Wade, Mrs. John H. Holliday, chairman of the St. Louis Woman's Committee, and her vice chairman, Mrs. J. P. Higgins; Mrs. Theodore Benedict, chairman of the Missouri Woman's Committee, and her vice chairman, Mrs. William T. Donovan. Mrs. Donovan has announced that the returns to date, which are not as yet complete, were $48,895,000 for the women of the State.

Social Items

Capt. and Mrs. Sevier Rains Tupper are being congratulated upon the advent of a daughter, who arrived yesterday, and who will be named Isabel Dutilh. Mrs. Tupper was formerly Miss Isabel Cabanne and is with her mother, Mrs. L. Dutilh Cabanne of 4915 Argyle place, during Capt. Tupper's absence in France.

Mrs. Lynn Secord, who has been in Washington with her husband, is convalescing from a severe attack of influenza. Lieut. Secord has received orders for overseas duty and upon his departure Mrs. Secord will return to St. Louis.

Mrs. Richard Mills of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Wynan G. Acton of 4561 Laclede avenue. Mrs. Mills formerly resided in St. Louis and is being much entertained in an informal way by her old friends.

Mrs. Douglas T. Allen of 5275 Pershing avenue has as her guest, Miss Barbara Senseney, formerly of St. Louis, but who is now residing in Colorado Springs. Miss Senseney's engagement to Joseph Allen Lee of St. Louis was one of the announcements of the early fall and the wedding will take place some time the first of the new year. Miss Senseney expects to remain here about a month.

Miss Sara C. Duke, daughter of Mrs. Charles H. Goodman of the Buckingham Hotel has gone to New York for a visit of about 10 days.

Mrs. Rolla S. Watson is convalescing at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Shumate of 4418 McPherson avenue, after a serious illness at the Missouri Baptist Hospital.

Mrs. G. E. Brown of St. Paul, Minn., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Thias of 4406 Holly avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Ledbetter and daughter of 5222 Waterman avenue have gone to Phoenix, Ariz., for the winter.

RUSSETT BURBANKS POTATOES

These potatoes are graded by the United States potato inspectors as U. S. grade No. 1.

On account of the dry season there are practically no straw potatoes, and as these were always considered the best potatoes for cooking and eating and keeping you can realize how much better our Russetts are, when we claim they are the best on the market.

The quality is so good to offset the price. Don't confuse our Russetts with the cheap kind that cook black and turn to mush. We have tried them as well as thousands of others and know positively that they cook as white as snow, and will keep longer than any other potatoes that you can buy.

Buy a few for sample or in large lots from the following dealers whom we authorize to sell these potatoes:

GIRLS! MOISTEN A CLOTH AND DRAW THROUGH THE HAIR

It becomes beautifully soft, wavy, abundant and glossy at once.

Save your hair! All Dandruff goes and hair stops coming out.

Surely try a "Dandrine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Dandrine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be gray, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, luster and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Dandrine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Dandrine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it if you will spend a few cents for a bottle of Knowlton's Dandrine at any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Save your hair! Keep it looking charming and beautiful. You will say this was the best money you ever spent.—ADY.

JUDGE TELLS WHY HE DISCHARGED MRS. TRACY

Regarded Her as Incompetent and Found Her Work Could Be Done by Others on City's Payroll.

Circuit Judge Calhoun of the Juvenile Court has sent to the Post-Dispatch the full statement of his reasons for discharging Mrs. Belle Trimble Tracy, the fact of whose dismissal from the position of probation officer was published in Wednesday's Post-Dispatch.

The Judge gives as his reason that he found Mrs. Tracy to be incompetent as a probation officer, and that the other work she was doing could be done by others already on the city's payroll. Judge Calhoun's statement, in part, follows:

"I wish to explain my reasons for discharging Mrs. Tracy. In December, 1917, I was assigned by the Judges in general term to preside as Judge of the Juvenile Court for a period of 18 months, beginning Jan. 1, 1918. The Juvenile Court and the Probation Office were at that time in the basement of the Municipal Courts Building, the House of Detention at 1226 Clark avenue. As the children's building had been completed at 1327 Clark avenue, the courtroom, Probation Office and House of Detention were all moved under my order into that building.

"Mrs. Tracy was at that time carried on the records of the Juvenile Court as a probation officer, but did no probation work, her work consisting of teaching such children as were housed in the old House of Detention at 1226 Clark avenue. She seldom came in contact with the Probation Office or the Judges of the Juvenile Court, on account of her working in this building, which was some distance from the court and Probation Office. When all these departments were housed in the same building, all that was changed, and I was in position to view daily just what the matron and superintendent, probation and deputy probation officers were doing. We moved into the new building the latter part of December, 1917, and the superintendent, Francis Dodson; the matron, Mrs. Dodson, and Mrs. Tracy were all retained by me in their old positions.

Removed to New Building.
"Some little delay was encountered in moving the courtroom into the Children's Building, and I wasn't able to hold court the first week in January. Imagine my surprise therefore, the second week in January, to see nearly every window broken on the second and third floors of this magnificent new building, and a set of wild, undisciplined children running rampant about the floors, destroying all manner of city property and committing all manner of delinquent acts.

"I visited Mrs. Tracy in her school room. She was giving one-half day instruction to the white children and a half-day instruction to the colored children. The discipline maintained by her in the schoolroom was abominable, the educational methods pursued by her antiquated, crude, and upon inquiry among the children, I found a total lack of respect for her. I told Mrs. Tracy at that time she would have to do better. I likewise informed the Dodsons. I gave both Mrs. Tracy and the Dodsons further trials. Finally, in March, I discharged the Dodsons and appointed as superintendent of the Children's Building Miss May Harrison, who had served so well and faithfully as matron of the Industrial School. I still hoped that Mrs. Tracy might do better, and knowing her economic condition, I retained her for a further trial.

Two Teachers Obtained.
"In March I again visited her classroom, this time accompanied by Judge Falkenhainer, and on that occasion we saw a number of white boys who had taken chalk from their classroom and had drawn all manner of holdup men upon the blackboard of the classroom and had written all over the walls of the building. The new superintendent and her assistants were kept busy taking the boys from the schoolroom from them, so that they could not destroy property. I knew then that Mrs. Tracy would not do as a teacher. "I went to see certain members of the school board, the Superintendent and Assistant Superintendent of Instruction, and told them that inasmuch as the children who were housed in the Children's Building were children of citizens of the city of St. Louis, I felt that they were entitled to the splendid educational facilities afforded by the public schools, and I did not think that they should go on as they were, suffering from want of competent educational instruction and discipline. The members of the board and the Superintendent agreed with me, and responded by sending two excellent teachers, one colored and one white, and I have had the satisfaction since of seeing the improvement and development of the children who came under their control.

"We have all-day school for both colored and white children in the Children's Building now, and the educational training and discipline given by these teachers has been an important factor in their reformation. Come and visit our house of detention and our school room now, or look at the windows and exterior of the children's building and you will see what has been accomplished.

"Mrs. Tracy Put in Office.
"Of course, after the teachers were installed it became a problem what to do with Mrs. Tracy. I had a talk with her in the presence of the chief probation officer and she was very wroth about her removal as a teacher and told me she detested probation work. I should have very properly discharged her then. I knew of her age and situation and about her sons through a family connection, and because of this and her long service in the probation office I thought I might be able to retain her by having her assist our investigators in giving mental tests and doing certain statistical and clerical work about the office. In spite of this Mrs. Tracy continually made trouble about the building. She talked about the new teachers, the new superintendent and probation officers. She consulted with a certain deputy probation officer and caused no end of trouble in the probation office until after an investigation with the probation officer, Mr. Smith, of her conduct, we concluded that the best interest of the probation office could only be served by having her out of it.

"Now, at the time of Mrs. Tracy's discharge an appointment of a colored probation officer was not contemplated. Mrs. Tracy was told her services would not be required after Oct. 1, 1918. She asked me for an additional month to find a new position and I gave her until the first of November, 1918.

Reference to Clinic.

"Furthermore, Mrs. Tracy never established a psychopathic clinic. Occasionally she did give Byner-Simon tests to children, that is, in a little over five years she gave these tests to about 640 wards of the Court, an average of about two per week, her examination consuming about one hour per week. The only clinic that I have ever known that was established for the children was a medical clinic I persuaded Dr. Stewart of the Department of Hygiene of the Board of Education to establish for me, and Dr. Stewart, himself, assisted by a nurse, installed that, since which time we have daily had some doctor from that department examine our children. * * *

"Now, the clerical force in the office is fully able, without much additional labor, to do all the clerical work Mrs. Tracy did, so I felt that I could not conscientiously stand by and see the city continue to pay $1500 per year for work that those already employed can do more proficiently than a woman whose work was wholly unsatisfactory and who was a constant menace to the efficiency and development of probation work.

"I believe I have been more than kind, more than lenient and more than indulgent with Mrs. Tracy these many months. I ever wrote a most kind letter to her, stating that her work would be done by other attaches of the office and detention home. The letter was for her benefit, and I did not state all of my reasons for her discharge, because I did not wish it to interfere with her getting other employment, although I could not and have not recommended her.

"Mrs. Tracy Called on Judges."

"Mrs. Tracy's post will not be given to a colored officer. What little there is of the work Mrs. Tracy did will be done by Miss Dick of the probation office and Miss Marrian of the House of Detention.

"Your article states that persons interested in endeavoring to have Mrs. Tracy retained in her post have taken issue with me in discharging her; if that is so it is in few instances and for purely selfish motive. Mrs. Tracy called upon every one of the Circuit Judges last September and related a story to them substantially the same as she has related to you, and you have printed it in your paper, but when these same Judges on the first Monday in October at a meeting in General Term, heard my reasons for her discharge, it was unanimously agreed without formal action being taken, that I was right in discharging her.

"When Mrs. Tracy found out that these visits to the Circuit Judges were bootless, she called upon all the prominent leaders of the Republican party, whose nominee I was when elected to office, among them Mayor Kiel, Mr. Schmoll, Mr. Koeln and Mr. Goldstein, and sent her friends to see these gentlemen in her endeavor to be retained in office. To all these I related the same facts concerning Mrs. Tracy's conduct as is herein written to you.

"Second. As regards the recent tests conducted by the examining board of the Juvenile Court for a colored probation officer, let me assure you that this had nothing to do with Mrs. Tracy's discharge.

"This decision was of recent origin. In fact, I would appoint a colored male probation officer now had Mrs. Tracy's work been of such a satisfactory nature that she could be retained. We have in the Juvenile Court today 1650 white children and 371 colored children on probation. The white children have 12 white officers, six male and seven female, to look after them, but the colored children have only one woman, Miss Sarah Young, a colored officer, to look after them. The colored children consist of 301 colored boys and 70 colored girls. * * *

"I am sure that a good colored man, one who is interested in the welfare and advancement of his race, can do much toward reforming the delinquent colored youth, and thereby save this State and city from the expense of maintaining them in after years in the already overburdened penal institutions of the State. It was for that reason, and that alone, that I requested the examining board of the Juvenile Court appointed by me, and consisting of Mr. Joseph L. Hornsby, the lawyer; Mr. Rathmann, the assistant superintendent of the public schools, and Dr. Mangold, in charge of the School of Social Economy, to conduct an examination for a colored probation officer.

"I believe the appointment of a colored probation officer will add to the efficiency of probation work among delinquent colored youth, and it is on that account, and that alone, that a colored probation officer will be appointed.

"Finally, let me say that it is not a very pleasant thing to have to air in the public press one's reasons for discharging an incompetent employee, nor is it a very pleasant task for the employer to discharge an old employee whose antiquated and inefficient methods are out of keeping with the successful development of her work. * * *

INFLUENZA BAN NOT TO BE LIFTED AT THIS TIME

Starkloff Asserts 300,000 Have Died in U. S. of the Disease and of Pneumonia.

There will be no lifting or modification of the influenza closing order at this time.

This decision was reached today by the Influenza Advisory Committee at a meeting in the Health Commissioner's office, after the Health Commissioner had stated figures from other sections to show how St. Louis had profited by the order and after he had stated his belief that the time for lifting had not yet come.

The Committee, without whose consent the order will not be lifted, adjourned to meet at the call of the Health Commissioner.

Health Commissioner Starkloff declared there had been 300,000 deaths from influenza and pneumonia in the United States during the epidemic, and asserted that the city could not yet afford to lift its order closing places of large gatherings of people.

"What's that, that is true?" exclaimed Mayor Kiel, who has been advocating the modification of the order.

The Health Commissioner repeated the figures. Afterwards he explained that he based them on United States health reports from 46 cities with a total population of about 20,000,000 in which there had been 66,038 deaths. He said he multiplied that number by five and approximated the deaths in the entire country to have been 300,000.

"I have not changed my position on the order," the Health Commissioner continued. "The situation is improving, but I am convinced a little more hesitation and St. Louis will be out of danger."

out appearing to be against the safety and the lives of the people.

"Certainly I do not want to appear in that position," the Mayor said. "However, I would like to present the cases of those persons who have been appealing to me to have the order modified or lifted. There must come a time when the order will be relaxed or lifted. The only difference of opinion between the Health Commissioner and myself is when that time is."

"Persons in business affected by the order come to me daily and declare that the life of their business depends on opening up. Churches have appealed to me. I do not want a single soul to die and I will not do one thing to hinder your work. The order cannot be lifted until you give your consent. I only ask you to consider the point of view of these people who are appealing to me and whose views I feel impelled to present."

Mal J. P. Bahrenburg, surgeon at the Marine Hospital and representative of the United States Health Service, said the whole question was whether the crest had been reached. He said that if it had, and therefore it would be unwise to raise the ban in the slightest degree. The results so far accomplished showed that the ban was essential and it should be continued until it was certain that no bad result would follow.

Schmoll Would Open Churches.

Director of Public Welfare Schmoll suggested that the ban be lifted a little, to see what the effect would be. He thought it might do to permit the churches to reopen for medical supervision, and if no ill effects appeared, gradually permit other places to reopen, but if the effects were injurious, then he would have the ban closed again.

Frank Tate, speaking for moving picture men, said that the picture show men were thankful that not a single death could be charged to them and that they did not want to open at a time of single life. However, he said that he felt that large stores and industries not engaged in war work should also have been closed.

There were 236 new cases of influenza reported to the Health Department today, compared with 237 reported at the same hour yesterday. Thirty deaths from influenza and pneumonia were reported. The Health Commissioner said that the number of cases since the beginning of the emergency now is 9882 and the number of deaths 460.

Dr. Ellsworth Smith, president of the St. Louis Medical Society, said that the public did not realize that the disease was not grip. The mortality from influenza-pneumonia, he said, was 50 to 60 per cent, while in ordinary pneumonia it was only 20 per cent. Doctors, he said, who felt themselves almost helpless in the face of grave cases, could not recommend lifting of the ban after the wonderful results that had been accomplished by it. He was sorry for the business people, but he could not be permitted to influence judgment.

"We have got a monster in a cage," he said. "The question is should we let him out and see if we can catch him again. If we let him out he may get away from us."

It was necessary, he said, to wait for a more decided dropping off in the number of cases. It had been found at the army camps that first there was a tapering off and then a decided drop. The local situation, he said, had not reached this stage. If any mistake had been made, he thought, it was in not making the ban more drastic. It might have been better, he said, if the department stores had been closed, but because there had been too much leniency in one particular was no reason for opening up in others.

Mal John Young Brown, representing Gov. Gardner, agreed with what the others had said. He said the scientific angle was the only one from which to view the situation. In all his experience as a physician, he declared, he had never seen a disease that had been so hard to handle. He advised that there be no lifting of the ban until it is certain that there will not be a renewed outbreak of the disease.

"Stamped Out at Barracks."

Col. C. E. Freeman, superintendent at Jefferson Barracks, said that the disease was stamped out at the barracks, but that, from the Health Department reports, it had been reached its crest in St. Louis and the closing order should remain tight.

A. R. Fairbanks of the Red Cross said that at Camp Pike, Ark., there were at one time 12,000 cases and that last Wednesday there were only 10 there. He said that indicated that when the epidemic begins to fall, it falls fast, but that he did not think the disease had reached that point in St. Louis.

Dr. J. W. Withers, Superintendent of Public Schools, said that he was anxious to open the schools at the earliest possible moment, but that he thought the probability of the same for the consideration of medical men and he was willing to defer to their opinion.

Dr. James Stewart, head of the hygiene department of the public schools, said that he had not been in favor of closing the schools when the order first was discussed, but records justified that action and he believed the time had not yet come for lifting the order. He said that of 16 nurses under his observation 14 had contracted it, showing how contagious influenza is.

Mrs. F. V. Hammar, chairman of the St. Louis chapter of the Red Cross, said that Mrs. Grace Anderson, in charge of the nursing, had said that the cases were becoming more virulent and that destitution as a result was increasing.

Police Heads Decided Members Are Needed in Other Work.

Following a conference with Police Chief O'Brien, Detective Chief Hannegan today abolished the "Morality Squad," which had been in existence since its appointment by Chief Creely in 1908.

With the establishment of six detective bureaus in various parts of the city it was decided members of the squad were needed in other work. Captains and police women in districts in which complaints are made will assume the duties of the morality squad.

FORMER CONGRESSMAN MICHAEL J. GILL DIES

Glass Blower Who Had Dyer
Unseated Succumbs to Pneumonia Following Influenza.

Michael J. Gill, 53 years old of 3017 Lafayette avenue, former representative in Congress for the Twelfth (St. Louis) district, died at John's Hospital early today of pneumonia brought on by influenza. He had been ill three weeks and was taken to the hospital last Sunday. The members of his family are his wife, Agnes, and their children, John, Joseph and Catherine.

Gill was seated in Congress after contesting the election of L. C. Dyer, Republican, against whom he ran in 1912. The contest was not decided until near the end of the term and Gill actually served in Congress from June, 1914, until March, 1915. In the election of November, 1914, he again contested Dyer, but was defeated. A fight was made on him by politicians in the river wards, who asserted that at a former election he had scratched the name of Thomas L. Kinney, then political boss of the Fourth Ward, as a candidate for State Senator.

Contest Was Expensive.
Gill also threatened to contest Dyer's election in 1914, but the contest was never filed. After winning his first contest it was said that he received $12,500 back pay as a Congressman, but that this did not more than balance the expenses of the contest.

His election to Congress in 1912 was regarded as a political wonder, and many stories were written about how he had risen from a $2-a-day glassblower. For many years he was employed as a bottle blower by the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association. His political strength was largely due to his prominence in labor unions connected with the glassblowing and brewery trades.

Was a Glassblower.
One of the stories told of Gill was that while his contest was pending in Congress he worked as a glassblower at $2 a day and his son worked as a department clerk in Washington at $1 a day to provide money to prosecute the contest. This later was denied by his political opponents, who asserted that he had other sources of income, one of which was his employment by a brewery as a beer salesman.

After retiring from Congress in 1915 Gill organized a glass manufacturing company with a plant at Festus, Mo. This venture did not prove as profitable as he had expected, and in recent years he had again been working at his trade as a glassblower.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

A Prohibition Answer.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Kindly print the following in answer to your editorial of Oct. 30:

Two claims are again advanced by the liquor men in their appeal for votes against prohibition: That prohibition is a violation of essential democracy; that prohibition is confiscation. Let us see.

The fundamental principle of democracy is not violated by prohibition of liquor any more than the prohibition of cocaine, opium, or morphine, are violations of democracy. Prohibition is the effort of democracy to take care of itself. Essential democracy is not personal liberty; it is relationship. Men are trying to find the best way to live together. They find that the use of certain drugs are hurtful to the members of the family; the whole family is thereby endangered; so they forbid the use of these drugs to the whole family, save under the most careful restrictions. It doesn't always succeed; but it is suicide to go back to the old way and let every man have his own head.

Now this is the whole of the case with liquor. I challenge the naming of a single scientific commission of medical men who declare in favor of liquor even in the smallest doses. The consensus of opinion, scientific, social, industrial, medical—leaving out the moral consideration—is utterly and unequivocally against the use of intoxicating liquors; it is the one outstanding cause for two-thirds of all the ills in the world. So—in order to save itself democracy says, "No." It cannot be made or sold or given away. That is the simple reason and process of prohibition. There is no "arrogance here; no long-winded Puritanism, no so-called religious bigotry at all. Nothing is said here of its medicinal use, though no intelligent physician thinks of prescribing it, or administering it save in cases of extreme need, just as he handles cocaine or opium.

The principle of democracy goes farther. What we call liberty is not freedom to do as you please. When will intelligent men stop talking in such foolish fashion. It is the utterest ignorance. Democracy takes high ground here. We have had some taste of it in the last 18 months—and we are going to have more of it. Democracy tells us how much liquor we can buy or use, how much butter, how much meat, how much wheat shall go into our bread, etc. Who complains? More? You can't get married without permission; you can't "turn out" without permission. You don't even own your child. The State tells you when and how long it shall go to school. Now the liquor business is just like that. Democracy has fixed it all up, no balance, and says that the business is hopelessly bad, and it must go. We are learning new lessons in democracy every day; no longer shall gigantic evils fatten on the life-blood of the nation. Any man who fails to see this is blind.

So prohibition is confiscation of millions of dollars of property—is it? That cry is a strange echo. It is the echo of slavery days when slave owners cried against emancipation; they called it confiscation. Who does the confiscating? Such talk is like the Kaiser asking for indemnity for being driven out of bleeding Belgium! It is like the Turk asking for indemnity as we muzzle him against the Armenians. Of all the contemptible, shameful claims made for the liquor business this talk of confiscation is the lowest. Can anyone figure what liquor has confiscated—love, homes, wives, children, health, happiness, heaven? Go slow on "confiscation"—there are rocks in that term.

W. H. GEISWEIT.

(There is in the above letter so much of assertion based on assumption and such an extraordinary mixture of the measures of democracy with war with the well-known principles and processes of democracy at peace, that intelligent readers will draw their own conclusion. Answering such a jumble of illogical reasoning is not worth while.—Editor Post-Dispatch.)

Wilson Is Right.

President Wilson's appeal to the American people is right. The time is at hand to vote as Americans for American principles. All American citizens should disregard party lines and forget the idols of their party, they have worshipped in the past. They should listen to the voice from the municipality and county, limiting it to questions affecting principles in the State and nation; place competency and integrity in every part of the public service; adorn our courts with judges worthy to wield the attributes of God; elect representatives that will reflect the majority of a free people; send to the Senate statesmen whom history will immortalize and free nations make their models. America! the countless generations who will dwell within the confines of their blessed land of freedom, from now to eternity confide their liberties to you. Uphold them with a patriotic devotion that never tires, guard them with a vigilance that never sleeps when American principles are at stake.

WILLIAM P. BAGGOTT.

THE ANTI-WILSON ISSUE.

The joint appeal of Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft for the election of a Republican Congress is valuable because it emphasizes the fact that Republican leaders have an anti-Wilson issue and clarify that issue.

The two Republican ex-Presidents declare that there is a real issue between the Republicans and President Wilson; that the Republican leaders distrust Mr. Wilson; they want to change his policies and destroy his leadership.

They frankly say that the Republicans want a majority in Congress in order that the President may be curbed and controlled and that the Republican party's program may be substituted for his program.

The President's plea for popular support and for unity in the Government has done good. It has shifted the Republican campaign to control Congress and thus check and control the President from underground to above ground. It has forced the Republican leaders to admit that they are not seeking congressional control merely because they are loyal and are supporting the war with even more ardor than the Democrats, but because they are anti-Wilson and want to substitute their policies and program for his policies and program. They do not intend to support the President in his war and peace plans but to oppose him and overthrow his leadership. They want to amend his peace terms which we have approved and to which our allies have agreed and which have done so much to unite all races and peoples under the banner of justice and liberty.

What is the verdict of the American people? Do they distrust the President? Are they afraid of his victory, under which we have marched to a glorious victory and to the goal of a just, enduring peace through the co-operation of free peoples? Do the people want to overthrow the President's leadership which is bringing the subject peoples of Europe out of the darkness of military despotism and oppression to the sunlight of liberty and independence? Do they want to undo the great work he has accomplished in uniting the free nations against autocracy and disintegrating the empires of the Hohenzollern and the Hapsburg and overthrowing their despotic power?

Do the American people think that the President has failed in his leadership and now, on the border of the promised land, should be condemned and repudiated?

Do the American people want to substitute for the Wilson leadership, which has accomplished such wonderful results for America and the world, the combine leadership of Roosevelt and Taft, Weeks and Lodge and Fess and Penrose, or do they want a divided leadership?

This is the issue that has now been defined and will be decided by the voters in the congressional elections.

ONE OF HISTORY'S GREAT DAYS.

The making definite of many things long foreshadowed gives to Oct. 31 a luminous place in extended war chronology.

The armistice taking Turkey out of the Hunbund was arranged, Austria, incurring appalling losses in the last few days to be added to those of the prior four years, asked for an armistice in the field, between military commanders, which is quite a different thing from foreign office armistice intrigues. The Versailles grand council made progress with its labors which are to determine how the war shall end. It was the Kaiser who determined how it should begin.

Among last acts where there is one with the closest unity, the dramatic values, the thrilling qualities of the last act in the Austrian tragedy, which opened with the pitiful curtain raiser on the Serbian front in July four years ago? The legitimate drama has nothing illustrating more strikingly the conventional workings of retribution and the triumph of moral forces. It was staged on the anniversary of days of disaster surpassing anything United Italy had ever known. The great drive in which Germany and Austria, with aid from other accomplices in the criminal confederacy, combined to make a terrific onslaught on Italy alone, began Oct. 24, 1917.

Four days later Berlin reported the capture of Gorizia, of the mountain passes, of 100,000 Italians and 700 guns. Those hours of one year ago were for the allied world among the most distressing of the whole war. All through November the Italian defenders were crushed back. The danger was that the whole of Northern Italy would be overrun, repeating the woes of Belgium and Serbia and Rumania; that France would be attacked from the south, turning the Flanders line.

Austria's collapse was very near when the Italians began their advance of the past week. Its inevitable outcome was very apparent. But Italy was entitled to this success to compensate her for past humiliation. The whole allied world was entitled to it. Italy needed the intoxication of so great a triumph to vitalize her national life during many years of peace, to amplify her authentic traditions evidencing national greatness.

TWO ILLINOIS BALLOT PROPOSALS.

But one amendment to the Illinois Constitution may be submitted at any given election. This provision alone, which makes changes demanded by new conditions slow and difficult, presents the strongest of reasons why Illinois voters should support the proposal for a constitutional convention, which they will find on their ballots.

But there are other strong reasons. The Constitution of that State, in force since 1870, is even more out of date than Missouri's, adopted six years later. If but one amendment can be voted on every two years and that amendment must receive a majority, not of the votes cast on the amendment itself, but of all votes cast in the election, how long will it take Illinois to confer full, instead of limited, suffrage on women? How long will it take it to reform the State tax system, give cities greater home rule, reorganize the courts, adopt the short ballot and make other improvements now imperatively needed? A revision convention can authorize all these most desirable betterments at a single election.

Illinois will also vote on an ingenious plan of financing road improvements. In the period after the war, when employment conditions may be precarious, it can build 4000 miles of fine highways without imposing a dollar of tax. The annual receipts from auto licenses will meet the interest on the $60,000,000 required, pay the entire principal in 25 years and provide, besides, an ample fund for keeping the highways in excellent repair. Vote "Aye" on both proposals.

Hopeless Case.

Ritterly was speaking of Pitterby's lack of tact. "Why," he said, "that chap is always getting himself in a pickle in that way."

"What has he done now?" asked someone.

"Why, he told a young mother when she showed him her baby that his sister had three just like it."

ONE-TIME GOOSE STEPPERS.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspaper and periodicals on the questions of the day.

THE EDITORIAL.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.
THE Editor and Publisher, apropos of its offer of a gold medal to the writer of the "best editorial upon the Fourth Liberty Loan," says:

However, under any government policy of advertising—a policy of asking private individuals to buy the space or the better one of having the space bought by the Government itself—we shall still need, and we shall still have, the enlightening and interpretative service of editorials. These carry a special appeal, backing up the appeal of the newspaper's voice.

Editorials, in spite of a minority opinion to the contrary, still exert an influence upon public thought quite as potent as in the days of the editorial giants—Greely, Raymond, Dana, Melville. They give shape and direction to opinion; they interpret for the lay mind the meaning of events; they clarify public questions; they make people think. The editorial writer has not abdicated in favor of the news editor—but he works in closer co-operation with him than in the old days.

If writers of editorials today are in conspicuous, it does not follow that editorials have less value and less weight as an influence upon public opinion than they had in the days of the giants to whom the Editor and Publisher refers.

If the anonymous writer of editorials does not hold the stage and make himself the lion of the place and performs a higher service when he is the successful intermediary between newspaper and public, he becomes by virtue of that record authoritative. The public learns that its purposes are good, and values its counsel accordingly. It becomes not a machine making opinions for individuals to adopt, but a respected councilor devoted to the public interest, devoting itself to study of matters of public concern, obliged by the nature of its function to give more of its time and consideration to the question of the day than can be given by the individual who enjoys his newspaper with his coffee and eggs and after breakfast devotes himself to the duties of his profession or calling.

The editorial writer has not abdicated? He has nothing to abdicate which savors of sovereign power. He is in the forum, not upon the throne, and in the forum vicariously, yet the value of his work is undiminished. The wall of stone or brick which endures, the arch which in true and bears its burden, reflects no glory upon the mason who built it, inasmuch as he was an unknown artisan, but the wall or the arch stands only if the mason's work was good. That the editorial page of the modern newspaper "stands up" against all competition indicates that the dramatic personality of the "giant" is not its sine qua non. Joseph Pulitzer was a giant among giants, although not of the Greely type, or of the type of Raymond, Melville or Dana. The editorial page of the New York World, to which his genius gave direction, has remained powerful since Mr. Pulitzer's death, its writers unknown by the public, because it has adhered to the rules of good journalism—in other words, good public service—which were laid down for it by the creator of the paper. Other examples might be cited. One conspicuous one is sufficient.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH by Clark McAdams

IN MEMORIAM.

Lieutenant-Colonel John McCrae. THE birds of every land would ask no further taste Of heaven than just to lie beneath the scarlet cope Of nature's Cardinal, in Flanders' field. With you whose life is ended; nevermore to grope In dark uncertainty for just a little fame And lying near to you, whose mantle covers all, Sleep peacefully; or if they dream, they dream your name, And if their silent lips could speak, 'tis you they'd call.

They envy not that you are loved in every clime, Whose message lights the darkest of the winter nights; Yours is the sweetest singing of the day and time, You are the priest and they your faithful acolytes. In Flanders' field the poppies blow, still, shape and direction to opinion; they interpret for the lay mind the meaning of events; they clarify public questions; they make people think. The editorial writer has not abdicated in favor of the news editor—but he works in closer co-operation with him than in the old days.

The torch had scarcely left your lifeless hand, ere they Had caught it; and to them it was your last bequest. They bore it, burning, through the world; and every day They light a taper everywhere: Rest, Comrade, Rest!

HERBERT W. CANN.

ADVENTURE.

Adventure, the most mystical of all human qualities, is again having its fling in the great war. Thousands and tens of thousands of young men have gone to war in that spirit, even as men have done always. Adventure has made empires, found seas, discovered the uttermost ends of earth. It was in the spirit of adventure that first the Spaniard and then the Briton swept the main. Is this the great adventure? Time only can tell. It probably isn't. There is too much machinery in it. Machinery somehow kills adventure. We thrill at sight of a sailing ship and scarcely notice a steamer. Like as not the great adventure was that of the Spanish conquest. Cortes had it in Mexico, and Pizarro in Peru. Through several centuries the plain trail of adventure led out of Spain down to those mystic seas where romance still hovers like a soft grey cloak. Doubtless the aviator feels something of what men one time felt in the quest of adventure. Like as not it is still blowing about on the sea. There is but one thing concerning it of which one can be quite sure: It is not found at home.

ABOUT EMPIRES.

The sort of empire the Kaiser sought to establish would not have been a success anyhow. It is just as well that it collapsed in the making, for it would probably have caused the world more misery still in blowing up later. The Germans have not the quality of which great empires are made. They are too brutal. The Romans had it. Read "The Star Rover," by Jack London. Jack made something of a study of the Roman era in Jerusalem, and his story of how the territorial rulers sent over there from Rome tried to keep out of the religious quarrels of the Jews is one of the best things we have on what it was that made the Roman empire possible. The British have that quality. Read "The Rough Road," by W. J. Locke, and learn about the Englishman who had a pearl fishery somewhere in the south Pacific. He came home at once when war was declared. "But what about your business back there?" somebody asked. "My business?" This is my business," the Britisher answered. "This is every Englishman's business when England goes to war." A German similarly placed would have blown up something where he was. What the Germans would have done to Calphas the High Priest for disturbing the serenity of German rule at Jerusalem makes one shudder to think of it. Empires are a good deal like politics. The nation which builds one up must be the equivalent of a great human being down in the streets. The Germans would better stick to the Rhine. They were doing very well there, and by staying in bounds pretty careful they can probably do it again.

The absence of political meetings in St. Louis during the present campaign has made one wonder if the country is all right and its destiny is in the proper hands. One doesn't always go out to receive assurances upon these scores, but the usual boom of rockets somewhere in the neighborhood makes one feel a little more comfortable than one possibly can feel in this brooding calm. Let us hope we are holding our own.

THE SUBLIME POSE.

Dr. Eliot Indorses President's Appeal to Voters; Says Actions of Republicans Since Justify It

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The following signed appeal by Dr. Charles W. Eliot, venerable president emeritus of Harvard University, was printed in the New York Times this morning:

Within a week thousands of patriotic members of the Republican party and thousands of independent voters must make up their minds how they will vote in the election of members of Congress in districts which are clearly Republican or clearly Democratic. Their decision will not be of serious importance, but in doubtful districts, or in districts where the war has wrought decided changes in the political views of a considerable fraction of the constituency, their decision may prove to be very important on the eve of an election.

President's Appeal Cited.

The President of the United States has made an appeal to his fellow countrymen not to transfer the control of either the Senate or the House of Representatives to the Republican party and has given as his reason for that unusual action that such transfer will seriously impair his power to act effectively as the spokesman and agent of the entire American people at home and abroad.

He believes that if the control of the House and the Senate should be taken away from the party now in power the Republican majority would assume control of legislation thereby seriously embarrassing the Democratic administration and that the confidence of the European peoples with whom the United States is associated in the conduct of the war and must be associated in negotiations for peace in the effective unity of the American people might be gravely impaired.

"Patriotic Americans may doubt the soundness of both the conclusions at which the President has arrived. Especially is it easy to doubt whether the fact that the Republican party had become the majority party and the Democratic party had been placed in the position of a loyal opposition party, both parties being in favor of the war, vigorous prosecution of the war and of the conclusion of peace only on terms which would make a lasting peace probable, would affect unfavorably the influence of the administration on European opinion. These doubts, however, may well be silenced by the reflection that the President of the United States is at this moment in a better position than any other American or any European to understand the effect of transferring the control of Congress to the Republican party at this critical stage of the war.

"The replies of the Republican leaders to President Wilson's appeal and the explanations which ex-President Roosevelt and Taft have addressed to their countrymen since President Wilson's appeal appeared go to show that President Wilson is right in his judgment concerning the probable effects of giving the control of Congress to the Republican party.

"All these eminent Republicans are now proposing in their published proclamations to force the advocacy of a particular policy called 'unconditional surrender' on the present administration and they assume without warrant that these words do not describe the ultimate policy of the Democratic administration.

"At the very moment when the administration is making a commendable effort to unite all the nations which are now contending against Germany in a common statement of the objects of the war and the inevitable terms of peace, these Republican leaders are attempting themselves to dictate the terms of peace which shall be advocated by the responsible representatives of the American people.

"If they think and act in that way at a very critical moment while they represent a minority party in Congress, how would they treat the administration if they came to represent the majority party? If they meddle in such an irresponsible and passionate manner concerning the comparatively simple question of the right way to bring the actual fighting to an end, what will they do when the solutions of the very complicated geographical, racial, industrial and commercial questions which will arise out of the war come before them for discussion?

Praise for President.

"The American people as a whole are under the deepest obligations to President Wilson for the manner in which he has conducted both the military and the civil affairs of the Government during the past four years. He has given the United States a position in human affairs which no other nation has ever possessed or now possesses. Patriotic voters will do well to keep this indisputable fact in mind and to avoid doing what President Wilson thinks would diminish his influence at home and abroad, every conscientious voter should take to heart the President's words: 'I am asking your support not for my own sake or for the sake of a political party, but for the sake of the United States itself, in order that its inward unity of purpose may be evident to all the world.'"

LIEUT. R. L. HEDGES WOUNDED FOUR TIMES

Son of Former Browns' Owner Writes Father of Fearful Battle—Injuries Not Serious.

First Lieutenant Robert Leo Hedges Jr., 23 years old, of the Twenty-third Infantry, son of the former president of the Browns, was wounded four times in the left thigh, Oct. 4, according to information received by his father, who lives at 329 Union boulevard. The 23d took part in the St. Mihiel fighting.

By a typographical error, a headline in the midday edition of the Post-Dispatch was made to read in an ambiguous manner as to Lieut. Hedges. The headline as written was "Lieut. R. E. Hedges Wounded: Officer in 138th Dies." An apostrophe was printed instead of a semicolon, leading to the erroneous impression that Lieut. Hedges, who was wounded, and the officer (Lieut. Schnelle) who had died.

Letter to His Father.

In a letter to his father telling of his wounds Lieut. Hedges in part said: "Of all the battles we have been in, and they were mighty hellish, this one was the worst. We went over the top Oct. 2 in support of the 1st Infantry, and the support and tanks did wonderful work. We gained our objective finally, after having been driven back several times. I was sent out with a platoon to protect the flank and the shell fire directed at us was so heavy that we were forced to evacuate.

"I received some nice flesh wounds, but I'm good blisly and will be out in about a month. We hear lots of talk about peace, but that will only come after the Germans have been whipped to a finish. We met the pick of the German army and they put up a stiff fight. We beat them, but we paid for it dearly. It was hell and murder."

Hears From Maj. Bailey.

On the same day that he received his son's letter, Hedges heard from Maj. Fred W. Bailey of Washington, a surgeon in the Medical Corps, who had attended to Lieut. Hedges' wounds at the base hospital. Maj. Bailey and the senior Hedges had known each other for some time, and when Bailey left for France a few months ago he said that he would never met, and introduce himself. "I told you that if I met your son I would introduce myself," wrote Maj. Bailey. "Well, I met him at the base hospital. He went under my knife on the operating table. His wounds are not of a serious character."

Lieut. Hedges, who is 23 years old, received his commission at the first officers' training camp at Fort Riley.

Why Czarina of Russia Betrayed Her Own Subjects as Germany's 'Royal Spy'

It Was Cold-Blooded and Studied Beyond Even the Urge of Her German Blood—It Was the Rankling in Her Heart of the Unpopularity She Had Reaped in Russia as the Tacitless, and for a Long While Heirless, Consort of the Czar—For This She Took Finished, Ruthless Vengeance.

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

ALEXANDRA, former Czarina of Russia, came to a land where, even from her wedding day, she was regarded as a woman of ill-omen; where, in the dark corners about her throne, the anarchist's bomb and the poisoned cup of the court intriguer were ever hiding; where the old, barbaric insult of divorce for failure to bear a man-child was urged almost openly. And Alexandra became perhaps the most successful and infamous royal spy known to history; the complete betrayer of the land and the people to whom she owed allegiance. Russia hated her; she was the Nemesis of Russia.

That is the summarized life story of the woman who has been called "the unhappiest Queen in Europe" and of whose unblushing treachery a new record has just been made public. According to the American head of the Salvation Army in Russia, the hysterical, half-made Czarina of All the Russias directly caused the death of Kitchener of Khartoum, came closest to the hearts of the rank and file of British soldiery. It has been generally accepted that spy work was responsible for the sinking of the Hampshire, which bore the English war lord on an important diplomatic mission to Russia. Now we are told that a private telegraph wire, leading directly from the apartments of the former Empress to Potsdam, whispered the secret which enabled the enemy to inflict on England her greatest individual loss during the war.

What was the cause of the persistent pro-German of this one woman ruler, as compared to the loyalty and devotion of other Allied Queens? She was of German birth. It is true, being born Princess Alix of Hesse-Darmstadt, and it is said that the Kaiser himself arranged the marriage. But so was Queen Elizabeth of Belgium born a Princess of Bavaria, and her self-sacrificing labors for the Belgium people are well known. When Pierre Loti asked her how she felt since the outbreak of the war, toward her mother and other German relatives, she replied with flashing eyes and a set white face, "Between them and me there is a curtain of steel!"

The German blood in the one-time Czarina is not enough to account for her studied betrayal of her country. But there is an explanation in a certain old adage: "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned."

Alexandra had not even a bride's popularity in Russia, young and beautiful as she was at the time of her wedding and so sweet-natured that her girlish nickname was "Sunny." She came to a court of mourning, her wedding taking place a few days after the death of her husband's predecessor, Alexander III. It was whispered everywhere that she was a most unwilling convert to the religion of the Greek Catholic Church, in which, at that time, most of the people of Russia believed intensely.

In celebrating the festivities of her wedding and coronation there occurred the Khodynka tragedy when thousands lost their lives. Of course the young Queen was in no way responsible for this accident, but the people considered it a part of the ill luck she brought the country.

Then Alexandra appears to have been lacking in that most useful quality of monarchs— tact. She perhaps had the narrow-mindedness and stubbornness of many so-called

THREE ST. LOUIS BOYS WILL PLAY AGAINST PIKERS

Taggart, Bohn and Kosky Members of Rolla Eleven Which Calls Saturday.

MINERS' SQUAD BROKEN

Visitors Have Suffered Many Defections and Have Not Yet Played a Game.

By John E. Wray.

Accidents and untoward circumstances are gradually eating into Coach R. B. Rutherford's Washington University football squad to an extent that, in less fortunate years, would have been alarming. Another mishap at Francis Field yesterday temporarily put another player out of commission—Tuescher, a chagge-off guard and tackle.

The player emerged from a hard scrimmage with a twisted ankle and may be out for an indefinite period, depending on developments in the case.

What, with the loss of five players to the officers training and injuries to Klalber, Feuerborn and several others, Rutherford's squad would be in bad shape for the unusual number of players available this year.

The Pikers, however, had a fine and final workout for tomorrow's Rolla game, which is to be played in private at Francis Field. In the absence of Simpson, Walter ("Dutch") Siebert ran the eleven to perfection and earned some favorable comment from the side line critics.

First Team Scores 8

Touchdowns in Workout.

Yesterday afternoon the first team waded into the second eleven and, despite the latter's knowledge of the signals, scored eight touchdowns in 30 minutes. The second eleven slipped across one score for itself.

The first team started out with Marquard at center, Sauls and Winkelman at guard, Deeds and Lippert at tackle, Shipper and Kraeche at end, Siebert at quarter and Bergen, Potthoff and Hausladen in the backfield. And it was some backfield.

The medical men, Simpson, Morrison, Kohlbray and Buscheck, were not in the fray.

Schultz, a former Cleveland High basketball star, made a favorable impression.

Tomorrow's lineup for Washington will probably be as follows:

ENDS—Buscheck, Shipper.
TACKLES—Deeds, Lippert.
GUARDS—Winkelman, Kraeche.
CENTER—Marquard.
QUARTERBACK—Simpson.
HALFBACKS—Potthoff and Bergen.
FULLBACK—Hausladen.

St. Louis Boys Coming With Team From Rolla.

Just what class eleven Washington will face Saturday is probably unknown, even to the Miners themselves. The Rolla eleven has not yet played a game, and the team personnel has been shifted, owing to the loss of regulars to officers' training camp assignments. Coach Simpson has been working hard to keep a squad intact, with only fair success.

The eleven is an R. A. T. C. and the players—some of them—are not yet over the effects of vaccinations and typhoid shots.

Reports from Rolla state that the School of Mines squad has been recently weakened by the loss of Moore and Campbell, now at Camp Grant.

The Miners are light in avoirdupois. "Chick" Taggart, Eddy Bohn and Kosky are St. Louis boys playing with the eleven. Taggart is quarterback on the regular eleven and Bohn a regular halfback.

The team will report from Rolla late this afternoon and will probably face Washington in the opening period with the following array:

CAPT. COBB ARRIVES SAFELY "OVER THERE"

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Capt. Ty Cobb of the Chemical Warfare Service has cabled President Navin of the Detroit Americans announcement of his safe arrival in Europe. The message read: "The ship I sailed on arrived safely overseas."

BILLIKENS GET UNIFORMS

Coach Ernest Quigley of the Billikens had so many players out at one time this week, he was unable to obtain enough uniforms and several of the hopefuls thus were forced to watch the proceedings from the sidelines. Fearing a repetition of the occurrence, Father H. A. Hermans, athletic director, yesterday purchased a number of new uniforms and complete equipment for every player who reported was able to indulge in practice.

Frank Shellenback Enlists.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Frank Shellenback, pitcher for the local American baseball team last season, has enlisted in the aviation branch of the service and hopes to gain a commission as a flyer, according to a letter from him received by President Comiskey today. The young pitcher is the nineteenth White Sox player to go into active service.

SPORT SALAD BY L. C. Davis

The Revue.

THE Turks have surrendered. The Sultan has tendered. His sword to the entente nations; His pride has been humbled. He's out of munitions and rations.

With rage he is choking. His jewels he's soaking. He'll have to scratch gravel. And beat it from Constantinople.

The people of Turkey Are nervous and jerky And sorry they strung with the Kaiser.

His majesty fooled 'em And fain would have ruled 'em But now they are sadder and wiser.

The Austrian people From houses and steeples Are yelling for peace in a chorus; Like stampeding cattle Our foes in the battle Are rapidly falling before us.

The war clouds are clearing. The Germans are nearing The edge of the bottomless chasm; The Kaiser is going And soon will be throwing A fine made-in-Germany spasm.

BENEFIT BOXING EVENTS TO BE HELD AS PLANNED, CHAIRMAN PRATT STATES

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Reputable statements made yesterday that the United War Work Campaign Committee would take no funds derived from boxing matches, except indirectly, it was announced today by Herbert L. Pratt that the general committee had put no obstacles in the Sports Committee's way. Pratt stated that he had been authorized by John D. Rockefeller Jr. to announce that he "would not think of interfering with the Sports Committee's plans."

The entire sports programs, boxing and Sunday entertainments included, have been left entirely to the local committees, Mr. Pratt announced.

R. A. Cassidy, a member of the St. Louis committee for the United War Work drive, stated yesterday that the entire program of the War Camp Community Service had been sent to the State committee for official sanction and that there was no doubt but that it would be adopted in its entirety.

ANOTHER LARGE SQUAD REPORTS TO QUIGLEY

More than enough players to form four complete teams turned out for practice at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon. Coach Quigley sent the entire squad through a long signal drill, which included various deviations such as tackling practice, running back punts, etc.

With the prospect that the influenza ban may be lifted soon, a revival of interest has been noticed among the Billikens. In addition to the large number of players out, a number of fans also braved the wind to watch the workout.

WILLARD WILL BOX AT FORT WORTH BENEFIT

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 1.—According to reports from local officials "last night," Jess Willard, world's heavyweight champion, had wired his acceptance to box in this city for the United War Work fund. Willard is scheduled to arrive here tomorrow.

A. A. U. OFFICIALS WILL VOTE ON RULE CHANGES

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Several important proposed amendments to the constitution of the Amateur Athletic Union to be considered at the coming annual meeting of that organization have been forwarded to all units of the union. The principal ones have to do with the reinstatement of soldier athletes, who previous to or since entering the service, have violated the rules of amateurism.

HIGH SCHOOL REGULARS TARDY IN REPORTING

Coaches May Be Forced to Reorganize Elevens if Absences Continue.

Where are the regulars? That's the question confronting the coaches of the high school football elevens at present. With the resumption of practice behind locked gates, after a layoff of three weeks, the prep men had hoped for a return of all members of their squads.

To date, however, several athletes who were considered potent cogs in their respective elevens have not reported and unless they do this week there is certain to be a general reorganization of the teams. The coaches are not the least perturbed over the fact, for in practice sessions this week several players of promise have been developed.

Coach Crosby of McKinley had 18 candidates at his disposal yesterday, a few more than reported on the previous day. Bill Hough and Olan Meeker, both of whom were regarded as regulars in the backfield, failed to report, however.

Coach Walker of Central apparently has the hardest task providing his scattered baseball forces and three of his athletes who thus far have failed to report continue absent. Egan and McTernan, who earned positions at ends on Central's aggregation, and Bill Bremser, halfback, are among those missing. This particularly is felt because Walker had molded a machine which seemed destined to make it interesting in the title race.

Among the Yeatman absentees are Weinel, tackle; Best, quarterback, and Bush, halfback. Fred Wellman, a substitute of last year's squad, reported to Coach Barr yesterday. Sol Can had the largest squad out of any of the schools. Coach Cook sent his charges through a hard scrimmage.

It is rumored that General Interest will soon be rounding up the scattered baseball forces and getting everything in readiness for the spring drive.

SCOTT FIELD TO PLAY CHANUTE TEAM NOV. 9

Lieut. John A. McDonald, director of athletics at Scott Field, announced yesterday that arrangements had been made to play the Chautauque aviators on Nov. 9. Originally the contest was booked for Robinson Field, but in order not to conflict with the St. Louis U.-Sewanee battle, this probably will be switched to Alton, Ill.

GREAT LAKES OFFICIALS NAME WRESTLING TEAM

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Nov. 1.—The wrestling team to represent the local Naval Training Station in the Central A. A. U. wrestling championships at Milwaukee, has been selected by the officials. There will be 12 men on the team, which is as follows:

155 pounds—Kohn, Stevenson and Stephenson; 145 pounds—Morris, Richie, Riffe and Witte; 135 pounds—Hodja and Geyer; 125 pounds—Farr, Brennan and Guilfoyle.

FORMER CARLISLE STAR DIES AT CAMP FUNSTON

CAMP FUNSTON, Kan., Nov. 1.—Sergeant David (Big Chief) Larabee, a member of the divisional football team, died here early this week from lobar pneumonia resulting from an attack of influenza. Larabee was well known in Eastern football circles, he having played a halfback position with Jim Thorpe at Carlisle in 1911-12-13. He was 28 years old and married.

$12,000 in Trophies, Instead of in Cash, for Champion Wilde

JIMMY WILDE, who recently defeated Joe Conn in a great battle in London for a $20,000 purse, could not accept the money which they attempted to hand him for his fistic triumph.

There is a hard and fast rule in the English army that no man in the service may accept remuneration for his work.

Instead, however, they allow him to accept a trophy. Not having the foresight to limit the amount of the trophy, the Government left a loophole for Wilde and his friends.

They bought him a trophy and in addition bought $11,000 worth of diamonds which they presented to him. Now Wilde may sell the diamonds at the best price obtainable and pocket the swag if he chooses.

CHIEF BENDER MISSING, FOLLOWING DEER HUNT

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—Chief Bender, the famous baseball pitcher, started out with a party of friends yesterday morning after deer in the New Jersey woods.

He became separated from his friends in a big swamp near Emleyville. When he failed to return near dark searching parties were sent out for him, but the party was forced to return to Atlantic City today with no finding Bender.

The search was kept up until after midnight. Men went in automobiles. The thickets were thrashed by men with lanterns, and even rockets were fired, but to no avail. No trace of the Indian could be found.

SCOTT FIELD TO PLAY CHANUTE TEAM NOV. 9

Lieut. John A. McDonald, director of athletics at Scott Field, announced yesterday that arrangements had been made to play the Chautauque aviators on Nov. 9. Originally the contest was booked for Robinson Field, but in order not to conflict with the St. Louis U.-Sewanee battle, this probably will be switched to Alton, Ill.

GREAT LAKES OFFICIALS NAME WRESTLING TEAM

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Nov. 1.—The wrestling team to represent the local Naval Training Station in the Central A. A. U. wrestling championships at Milwaukee, has been selected by the officials. There will be 12 men on the team, which is as follows:

155 pounds—Kohn, Stevenson and Stephenson; 145 pounds—Morris, Richie, Riffe and Witte; 135 pounds—Hodja and Geyer; 125 pounds—Farr, Brennan and Guilfoyle.

FORMER CARLISLE STAR DIES AT CAMP FUNSTON

CAMP FUNSTON, Kan., Nov. 1.—Sergeant David (Big Chief) Larabee, a member of the divisional football team, died here early this week from lobar pneumonia resulting from an attack of influenza. Larabee was well known in Eastern football circles, he having played a halfback position with Jim Thorpe at Carlisle in 1911-12-13. He was 28 years old and married.

Let the Wedding Bells Ring Out.

Grindstone George.

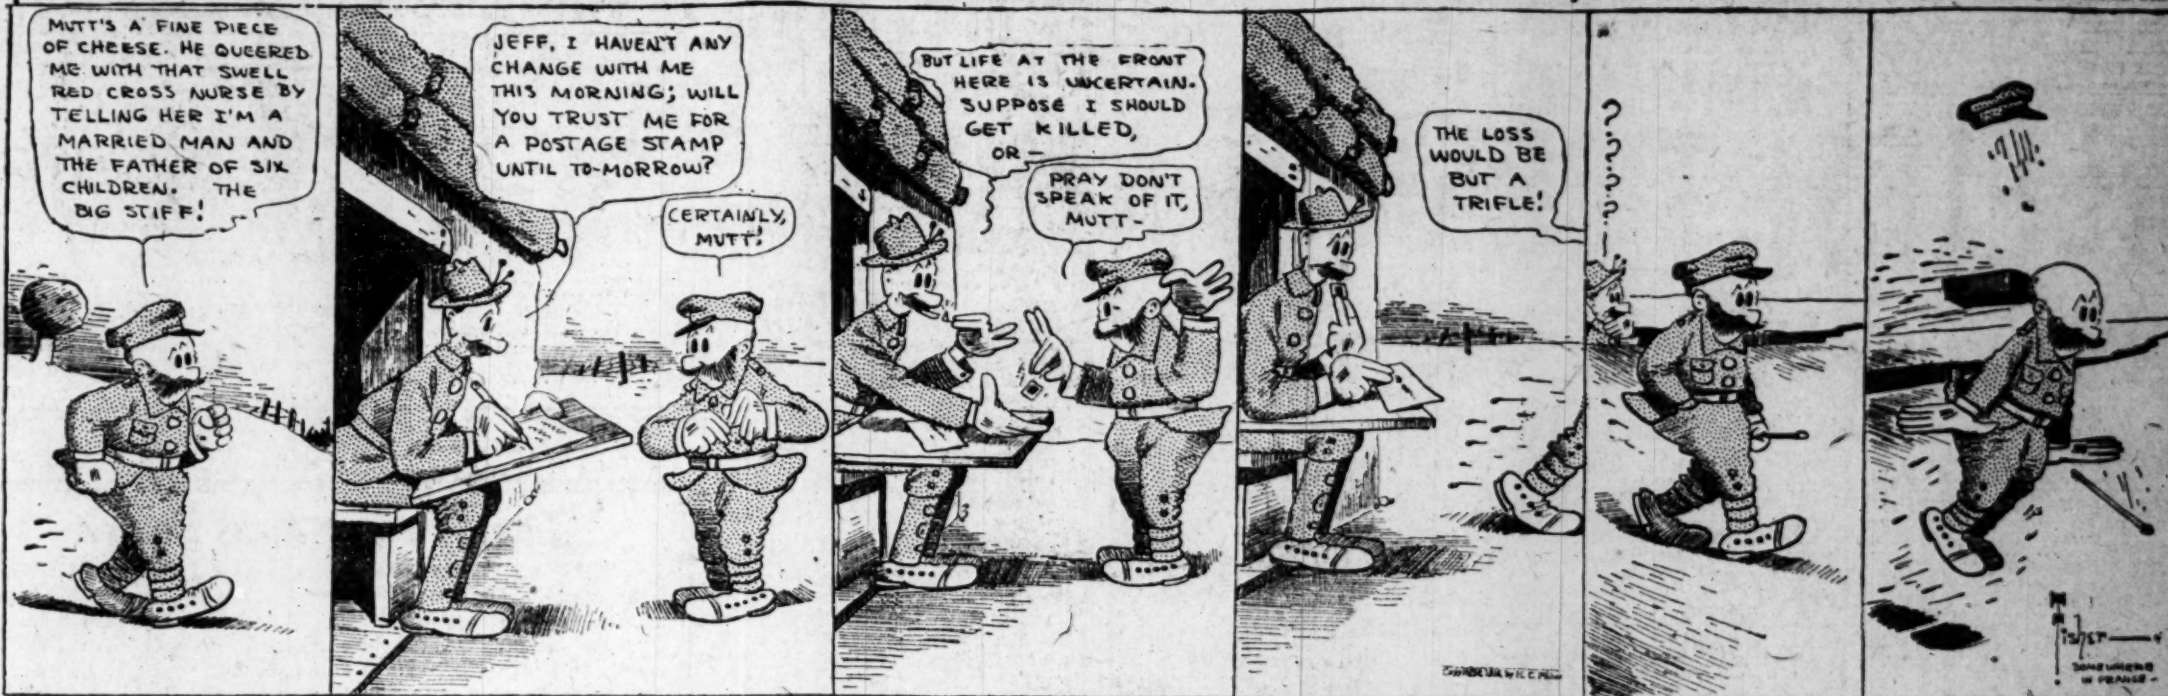

Suitcase That Suits Each Case.

POLICEMAN (rounding up draft suspects): Have you got a card? The Suspected One (with suitcase): A whole case of 'em! Which do you want to see—draft, registration, meat, sugar, calling, milk, playing or postal card?—Judge.

Relic of Better Days.

"HOW long will my steak be, waiter?" "About six inches, sir." "We like to read over this old joke! It recalls such pleasant memories—the answer today would be 2½ inches."

PENNY ANTE—The Guy Sorry He's There By Jean Knott

Considerably Softened.

"THIS war is dreadful." "So it is," replied Mr. Dubwaite, "but it has made a better neighbor out of me." "How is that?" "The young man who used to practice on the cornet morning, noon and night in a hall bedroom across the street has been decorated for gallantry in France. If he ever comes home and wants to resume practicing I won't say a word."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Some Car.

SPECTATOR (describing accident): It fell over that cliff up there. There ain't a scratch on the car, but the people were injured something frightful. Enthusiastic Motorist: Wonderful, by Jove! What's the make of the car?—Sidney (Australia) Bulletin.

The Wrong Place.

HE seated himself in the grill and made a protracted study of the menu. "Waiter," he said at length, "I have only 12 with me. What would you recommend?" The waiter gently removed the card from the hand of the unsophisticated stranger as he replied: "Another restaurant."—San Francisco Argonaut.

An Undefined Expression.

"Is your place within walking distance of the cars?" "I dunno," answered Farmer Corn-tassel. "How far kin you walk?"—Washington Star.

Wool-Gathering.

Barber (about through with hair cut): Does that suit you, sir? Absent-minded Professor: You've cut it altogether too short—a little longer, please.

It Was That Kind.

Patience: How long has Peggy worn that colored hair? Patrice: Oh, I should say, on and off for four years.—Yonkers Statesman.

Unchangeably Feline.

NIECE (angrily): That Mrs. Blank is an old cat. Uncle Dick: Shouldn't wonder. I knew her as a girl and she was very kittenish. If Jack Spratt and his wife were keeping house these days the old lady would get all the worst of it, for while Jack could have the lean, Mr. Hoover would want the fat.—Buffalo Express.

What It Means.

"Pop?" "Well, son—" "What is meant by the theater of war?" "The theater of war, my son, is where we are now playing most of our 'tank' dramas."—Youngstown Telegram.
